Crime signs to be posted

The 2 feet x 2 feet metal signs were donated to the city by the Wayne County Deputy Sheriff's Association in recognition of the Meadows Subdivision neighborhood's efforts to combat crime in their area.

The 15 crime prevention signs, costing approximately $10 each, are among several projects supported by the non-profit association made up of some 600 Wayne County sheriff deputies.

Proceeds from their annual circus and variety show also support area little league teams, provide materials for educational assemblies like the "Don't Ride with a Stranger" program and many other community programs, according to Dennis Barr, president.

Barr also said that other signs will be forthcoming if other neighborhoods in Romulus organize watches of their own.

To date, the Wynclyft Subdivision located across from the high school, and the Oakbrooke Subdivision, located south of the airport, have also indicated interest in the crime prevention program.

A second organizational meeting of the Wynclyft Subdivision Watch program will be held later this month at the high school, once materials arrive from Washington, D.C.

Judge will speak on crime

Romulus thirty-fourth District Court Judge Henry Zaborowski will speak on criminal justice Wednesday, March 14, 1979 before the Hale Creek Neighborhood Watch organization at 7:30 p.m. at the Halecreek Elementary School, 16200 Harrison.

Zaborowski, the presiding judge of the local court, this year, hears cases at the newly-completed courthouse located in the civic center complex, 11131 Wayne Rd.

He first took office in Romulus in 1974, when the court caseload increased to 17,000 cases yearly, requiring a two-judge district.

Prior to that date, Judge James B. Stone was the sole judge for the 34th district which includes Belleville, Huron Township, Romulus, Sumpter Township, Van Buren Township and the Metropolitan Airport.

The judges are elected by district residents to six-year terms. Zaborowski's first term will end in 1980.

The topic of the meeting will be: "Modernizing Criminal Justice through Citizen Power," and is based on a pamphlet by that title published and distributed by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Citizens of Romulus can obtain a free copy of the pamphlet by calling the Public Information Office, 941-0666, extensions 20, 24.

All residents of the city are urged to attend this meeting.

Ex-county water chief hired

New city engineer highest paid worker

The city of Romulus has hired a former head of the Water and Sewer Division for the Wayne County Road Commission as its city engineer.

At an annual salary of $24,000, George R. Bingham becomes the highest paid person on the city payroll, exceeding Mayor William M. Oakley's compensation of $22,680 annually.

Bingham, who was unanimously approved for the top engineer's post at the council's last meeting in February, also has been associate professor of civil engineering at the University of Detroit since September of 1977.

He began his new duties March 1 on a part-time basis and will go to work on a full-time program commencing May 1, according to Jay Young, public information officer.

The 61-year-old Bingham was born in Montana, but resided in Ferndale, Mich. as a youngster, graduating from high school there in 1934. He received his B.S. in civil engineering from Michigan State College in 1941.

In 1950, Bingham earned his M.S.

in civil engineering from the University of Michigan, also teaching that year at the U-M Rocky Mountain Field Station, Jackson, Wyo.

During World War II, he served with the U.S. Army from 1941 to 1946, his active duty starting with the Army ROTC a few months prior to the bombing of Pearl Harbor.

Four and a half years after beginning work with the Wayne County Road Commission as assistant head of the Water and Sewer Division, he became

1,500 traffic signs eyed for Romulus

The city of Romulus could soon have 1,500 new traffic control signs to replace those in need of repair, replacement or relocation.

City Council last week unanimously approved a request from Pat Hogan, community development director, and David J. Paul, director of public works, to apply for state funds to pay for the signs.

In a memorandum to council, the two men said a recently completed survey showed the need for 1,500 new signs and that existing signs created "a hazardous traffic condition in several locations throughout the community."

They said the survey determined the total cost of the signs would be $13,495, of which the city would have to pay $4,048, or 30 percent.

The motion for okaying the fund application to the Michigan Department of State Police was made by Councilman Ray Cantrell and seconded by Councilman Mary Carter.

In other action, the council approved the reappointments of Duwayne Martin and Jack Barton to the city planning commission and John Percy and Ernest Komathy to the police, fire and safety commission.

Martin and Barton will serve until Jan. 1, 1982. Percy will serve until Feb. 13, 1980, while Komathy will serve until Feb. 15, 1982.

department head. At about the same time, he was appointed director of the newly-established Wayne County Department of Public Works.

For 17 years, Bingham served as DPW director, sanitary engineer and waste control division head for Wayne County, being responsible for as many as 130 employees and a $12 million annual budget.

Among his major projects, Bingham was responsible for the coordination of design and the supervision of construction on the $52 million capital improvements program (1955-60) for the Wayne County Water System.

His teaching experience also includes 11 years at Lawrence Institute of Technology as civil engineering instructor.

Bingham's engineering background includes being assistant city engineer for the city of Dearborn from 1951-55, city of Detroit Department of Water Supply from 1950-51, and municipal engineer with a Detroit civil engineering firm from 1946-49.

Bingham and his wife, Virginia, reside in Dearborn. They are the parents of three children - William, Stephen and Barbara.

Romulus man charged

Hope arrest will solve 30 related area crimes

The arrest of a Romulus man charged him with two counts of breaking and entering may prove to be the link to some 30 related local crimes occurring over the past several months.

Arrested by detectives Robert Pond and Edward Lindberg was James Phillip Taylor, 18, of Romulus.

Although details are sketchy, the police believe that several unsolved burglaries, larcenies, one arson incident and several malicious destruction of property occurrences can be traced to Taylor and a group of juveniles. More arrests are expected soon in the case, including several more adults, police said.

Taylor was arraigned Saturday at the 34th District Court in Romulus and is being held at the Wayne County Jail on $10,000 bond. His examination has been set for March 14, 1979 at the district court.

VB board jailed again for contempt

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

One of seven members of the Van Buren Township Board jailed Friday was hospitalized Monday afternoon in "poor" condition at a suburban hospital.

Trustee Jerry Maton, 55, was placed in the intensive care unit of Wayne County General Hospital in Westland after spending a day and night with four of his colleagues in the Wayne County Jail.

Maton and his colleagues on the township board were jailed for the second time for refusing to obey Circuit Judge Charles Kaufman's order to allow proposed mobile home park to connect to the Ypsilanti sewage system.

Last Dec. 28, the entire board spent 31 hours in the Wayne County Jail on a similar contempt of court charge from the same judge.

However, this time around, there was a change in the scenario as two trustees signed an agreement ordered by Judge Kaufman and were released a few hours after their confinement Friday.

Released were Clerk Doreen Craven and Treasurer Dorothy York. Mrs. Craven cited the intense emotional anguish and torment caused by the jailing, while Mrs. York said the incarceration aggravated her hypertension.

Meanwhile, Richard G. James, township attorney, Monday sought relief from the ordered jailing from the Michigan Supreme Court and the Michigan Court of Appeals. Still in jail as of present time were Supt. Pat Cullin and Trustees Donna Hall, Fred Domen and Tom Welty.

James said the five board members still jailed would be released from jail should either court grant a stay in the legal proceedings.

However, late Monday afternoon, the Court of Appeals turned down the board's appeal and its fate remained in doubt. As of press time, nothing had been heard from the Supreme Court.

In ordering the township board to jail Friday, Judge Kaufman angrily denounced the seven trustees as "worse than criminals" and for "acting above the law."

Judge Kaufman gave the board and its attorney such a tongue-lashing that two state legislators who represent the Van Buren Township area announced they would have him investigated.

Rep. Gary Owen (D-Ypsilanti) and Sen. William Faust (D-Westland) are drafting a letter to the Michigan Judicial Tenure Commission asking for an investigation of Judge Kaufman's actions and any possible connections with the mobile home park developers and their attorney.

As in its refusal last December, the township board did not obey the judge's order to allow the sewer hookup on the grounds that Belleville Lake would be further contaminated.

In 1977, the lake was closed due to high levels of bacterial pollution. Judge Kaufman has steadfastly ignored the pollution aspect, stating that no new evidence could be introduced in the case at this time.

In earlier court hearings, which date back to 1970, the pollution threat to Belleville Lake was not made a part of the case.

As cited by Sup. Pat Cullin and other board members, the township board never refused the sewer connection because they were not approached by the developers. The case began to simmer after the developers failed to show up for a rezoning hearing and Judge Kaufman personally ordered the requested zoning on the request.

After the Court of Appeals ordered the township board released in December, it directed the developers' attorney to draw up an agreement between Van Buren and Ypsilanti townships for the sewer hookup. It further ordered the board to hold a special meeting and vote for or against the proposal, stating that further action from that point on would be up to the lower court (circuit).

Last week (Monday), the township board voted unanimously to not sign the agreement, after which a roll of petitioners containing some 5,000 signatures was presented to the board by Barry Henderson, chairman of newly-formed committee supporting the board and its stand on the sewer connection.

Loud applause greeted the board's decision, but the elation was short-lived when all seven trustees were ordered to come to court Friday morning. A few short minutes later, they were being processed for their lodging in the county jail.

He has served a member of the University's Safety Committee for two years.

A resident of Ypsilanti, Ward and fellow employee Jody Lamkin risked their lives last Sept. 15 when they roused eight sleeping occupants of a burning apartment building located at 427 Perrin St. Lamkin and Ward formed a human chain down the basement steps of the apartment building to save a trapped woman in the smoke-filled basement.

As a trades and grounds foreperson at the University, Ward assigns and supervises employees on the University's grounds crew and coordinate maintenance activities with the needs of the University community. He is responsible for ordering and receiving materials, inspecting completed assignments and determining the need for additional work.

His appointment was effective immediately.

Belleville resident Laurie Ostadius has been appointed custodian in the Physical Plant Department of Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti. The appointment was effective Feb. 21.

Second meeting scheduled

Citizens lake task force to shape pollution policies

A citizens task force appointed to study pollution in the Huron River-Ford Lake-Belleville Lake system has scheduled a second meeting for 7:30 p.m. March 12 at Schroder Realty offices in Belleville.

The citizens task force was appointed at the urging of Senate Majority Leader William Faust (D-Westland) and State Rep. Gary Owen (D-Ypsilanti,) in an effort to shape government policies to eliminate pollution in water system.

The nine-member task force was formed following the passage of legislation sponsored by Faust and Owen to secure a $200,000 grant for University of Michigan researchers to pinpoint the causes of pollution in the water system.

While U of M. scientists are working on the project — expected to be completed sometime after September — the citizens task force will consider local, state and federal government policies which can be utilized to revitalize the water system.

Roger Copp of Ann Arbor, executive director of the Huron River Watershed Council, was elected chairman of the citizens' task force at its organizational meeting Jan. 30. Other members of the task force — appointed by Belleville Mayor Justin Emerson, Ypsilanti Township Sup. Ron Allen and Van Buren Township Sup. Patricia Cullin at the suggestion of Faust and Owen — are: Jay Hartford, Dorothy Schroeder, Marshall Weid, Elton Gollwitzer and Barbara Rogalle Miller, all of Belleville; Bob Ryden and Robin Harrower, both of Ypsilanti, and Joy Cox of Wayne.

"The task force laid important groundwork at its first meeting which will serve as the basis for future decision-making," said David Callanan, a special assistant to Faust, who the senator appointed to serve as a liaison between local citizens and legislators.

"Judging from its first meeting, it looks like the task force will play a vital role in seeing that government assistance is obtained without delay," he said.

Callanan said one goal of the task force, which will meet regularly, will be to translate findings of the U of M study into recommendations for legislation and government action.

"The central problem, which we on the state level can provide valuable assistance in solving, is determining where the responsibility for pollution clean-up lies and how it can be cleaned up the fastest," Faust said.

"I am looking to Dave's work with the task force to provide the fine tuning and direction needed in order for us to tailor any legislation to address specific problems and to obtain direct assistance from executive departments," he added.

Navy band visits Romulus High School

Members of the United States Navy Band "Lifeboat" are shown early last month as they entertained students at Romulus High School with a special performance. The hour-long program so pleased the students that they are looking for a repeat performance in the future, school officials reported. The musical program was presented as a public gesture of good will by the armed services band.

North Jr. High wins wrestling title

Romulus North Jr. High School topped seven other schools to win first place recently in the South Suburban Jr. High Wrestling League tournament at Belleville South Jr. High School.

The Raiders compiled a record of 11 wins, three losses and two ties under the tutelage of Mike Abdo, wrestling coach, to take the championship.

The six first place winners on the Raiders team were: Joel Smith, 90 pounds; Gerry Redmond, 118 pounds; Eric Waters, 125 pounds;

Leroy Burcroff, 146 pounds; Alan Carpenter, 160 pounds; and Charlie Redmond, heavyweight.

Two other members of the Raiders team — Joe Marvin, 139 pounds, and Matt Bossory, 104 pounds, finished third and fourth, respectively, to earn consolation medalists places.

Winning of the annual wrestling championship is the first in the three-year existence of Romulus North.

Parking lot is studied at city park

A 25-30 space parking lot at Fernandez Park in Romulus, between Venoy and Wayne Roads may become a reality in the near future.

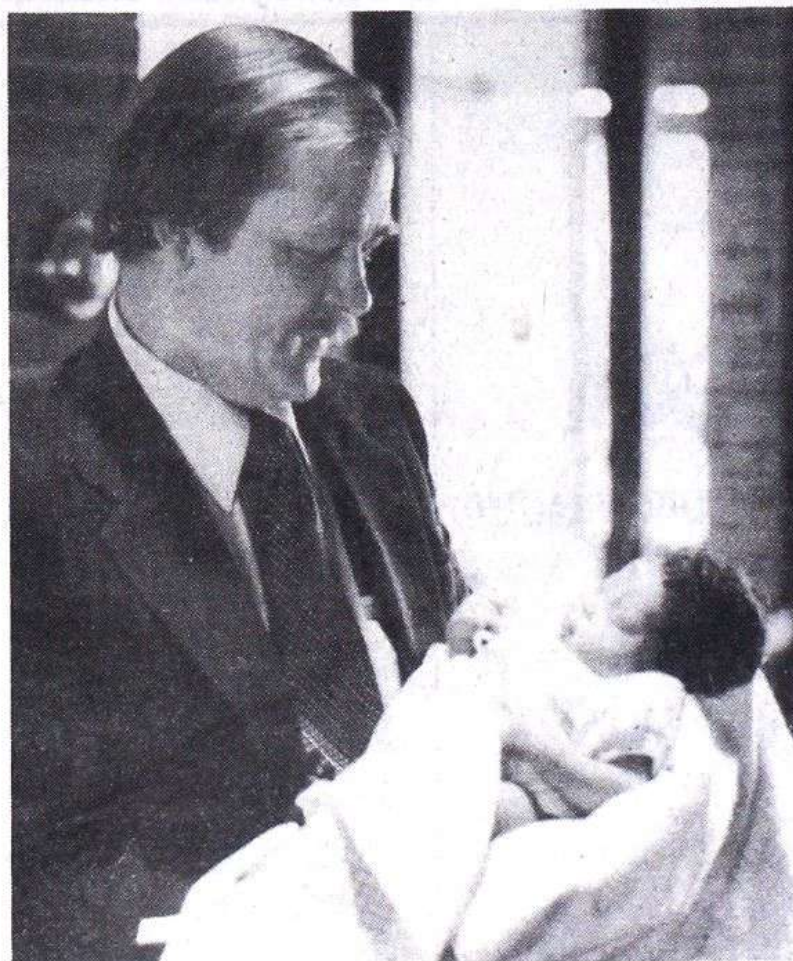

City council last week approved a contract with Christopher Wzaczny & Associates for professional and technical services involved in planning the parking lot.

Action came after council considered a written request from Pat Hogan, community development director, stating payment for professional services and development would come from federal funds.

Council endorsed the parking lot project upon a motion by McNally, seconded by Junior Block. Voting against the proposal were council members Mary Carter and Jimmy Raspberry.

Raspberry had insisted in discussion that the city recreation commission and the citizens advisory should hold a public hearing to gather input from area residents.

Hogan's written request stated the parking lot had been earmarked in the city's application and subsequent receipt of $70,000 in innovative grant program money.

How it's done

Mayor William M. Oakley gently cradles young Yolanda Louise Buffington, born Feb. 5 to Karen Buffington, secretary to Romulus City Clerk Leonard Folmar last week. Yolanda, not to be outdone by infant Monica Michelle Moore, who visited city hall with her mother several weeks ago, rested blissfully throughout her visit to city hall, including her interview with the mayor. The mayor commented on the proper way to hold newborns, with the head firmly supported, admitting he has had plenty of practice, rearing four children of his own. (Photo by Jay Young.)

Construction in Romulus up in 1978

Year-end reports usually are dull, but one issued recently by the Romulus building department shows that construction was up more than $4 million in 1978 as compared with the previous year, good news for the community.

The jump in local building prompted Hyle Carmichael, industrial coordinator, to comment, "Romulus is on the move industrially."

January and April were outstanding months, reaching almost $7 million in construction each, with June not far behind at a little over $6 million. December was the worst month, with $161,292 in building construction.

Permit fees for 1978 totalled more than $200,000, with those issued for buildings accounting for more than half at $114,069.

Of 17 building permits issued last month, eight were for additions and alterations, four for industrial buildings, three signs and two for fences.

December construction permits were for: an addition to Children's World, 27975 Eureka Rd.; foundation for an industrial building for Highland Industrial, Highland Road between Wick and Hildebrandt roads; foundation for an industrial building for Highland Industrial, same location; and an auto rental and leasing office for Econo-International, Middlebelt Road between Wick and Hildebrandt roads.

Residents star in annual EMU honors concert

A Wind-Percussion Honors Recital, featuring five Eastern Michigan University students selected by competitive audition, will be held Saturday at 8 p.m. in Pease Auditorium on the EMU campus.

This is the second year for the recital.

Each of the student musicians was first recommended by his or her teacher before auditioning. Each has excelled in some way and exemplifies the best of what the department of music at EMU is all about.

The five performers are Karen Chipurn, Paul Lehman, Monica Celizic, Edward Bialach and Gilda Hauser. Chipurn is a sophomore majoring in music education at EMU. She has held a Presidential Award for the past two years. This year she also was the winner of the EMU Band Scholarship for outstanding music majors. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Chipurn of East Detroit.

Lehman carried a 3.5 average as a senior music education major. He recently performed an outstanding senior recital. He has served as a member of the undergraduate band staff for three years and has held the first chair in clarinet in the Symphonic Band. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Lehman of Westland.

Bialach received the Marching Huron spirit award as a freshman at EMU. Now a sophomore, he performs in the Percussion Ensemble, Orchestra and is a mainstay in the percussion section of the Marching Hurons. ARE YOU AWARE

The Connection between obeying God and Knowing Him?

I JOHN 2:3 — And hereby we do know that we know Him, if we keep His commandments. 2:4 — He that saith, I know Him, and keepeth not His commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him. 2:6 — He that saith he abideth in Him ought himself also so to walk, even as He walked.

SHOULD WE FEAR GOD?

PROVERBS 1:29 — For that they hated knowledge, and did not choose the fear of the Lord. 1:30 — They would none of my counsel. They despised all my reproof.

LUKE 12:4 — And I say unto you, my friends, be not afraid of them that kill the body, and after that have no more that they can do. 12:5 — But I will forewarn you whom ye shall fear: fear Him, which after he hath killed the body, hath power to cast into Hell: yea, I say unto you, fear Him.

MALACHI 3:16 — Then they that feared the Lord spake often one to another: and the Lord harkened, and heard it, and a book of remembrance was written before him for them that feared the Lord, and that thought upon his name. 3:17 — And they shall be mine, saith the Lord of hosts, in that day when I make up my jewels; and I will spare them, as a man spareth his own son.

Dueteronomy 6:17 — Ye shall diligently keep the commandments of the Lord Your God and His testimonies, and His statutes, which He hath commanded thee.

"Dear friends, not all is fear in serving God. He is the protector of His children and through Jesus Christ, bring a joy to one's life that is beyond comparison. How about it? Submit your will to His, accept Him as master, and great will be your reward."

BRONCHITIS & CHIROPRACTIC

WHAT IS BRONCHITIS?

Bronchitis is an inflammation of the bronchial tubes leading to the lungs. Sometimes incorrectly described as "chest cold", bronchitis should not be regarded lightly.

BRONCHITIS AND THE NERVOUS SYSTEM

Bronchitis is a manifestation of an abnormal condition in the body. Sometimes inhaled chemical irritants, excessive smoking, too much alcohol or exhaustion can cause bronchitis symptoms; psychological factors also may aggravate the condition. However it occurs, the body tries to eject an overload of poisons through the mucous membranes which line the internal surfaces of the bronchial tubes.

Doctors of chiropractic have found that when a bronchial condition occurs, the nervous system generally is affected by interference in the transmission of vital nerve impulses from the brain to the bronchial area. Until this interference is removed, there is little chance for the body to restore itself.

Bronchitis usually is accompanied by aching limbs, rising temperature, general malaise and a feeling of tightness in the chest.

Acute bronchitis is the result of an infection. The chest becomes painful and sore. Fever, coughing and expectoration often add to the discomfort. About 6,000,000 Americans per year suffer from acute bronchitis, yet bronchitis and acute bronchitis can be corrected by chiropractic care.

THE SUBLUXATION

The brain is the headquarters of the nervous system. Vital nerve energy is transmitted from the brain to the various parts of the body by means of the spinal cord and the spinal nerve trunks, emanating from the spinal column.

Interference in this energy flow results in a "subluxation," a misalignment of one or more of the spinal vertebrae. This might be due to an accident, muscular tension, even a slight bump or jar which you may not have noticed. This distortion in the impulses being transmitted eventually causes malfunction.

HOW CHIROPRACTIC CAN HELP

Locating the offending subluxation is the specialized skill of the doctor of chiropractic. The chiropractor is trained to determine which segments of the spine have become misaligned.

Determining the affected area by examination and spinal analysis, the chiropractor then eliminates the impingement through chiropractic adjustment if indicated.

Once the nervous system is functioning normally, the body is able to restore itself to peak efficiency by its own healing process.

CHIROPRACTIC AND GOOD HEALTH

Don't wait for bronchial symptoms to occur—visit your chiropractor regularly and maintain your good health. Periodic chiropractic care will keep you feeling fit!

Returnable bottle law fosters jobs for handicapped

The returnable bottle law may be causing controversy among Michigan consumers, but it has brought many new jobs for people like the mentally and physically impaired trainees at the Farmington branch of New Horizons of Oakland County Inc.

It also has provided an opportunity for private industry to work closely with human service agencies toward a mutual goal, with remarkably successful results.

Since September, the 7-Up-Canada Dry Bottling Company of Detroit has been working in conjunction with New Horizons and the Bureau of Rehabilitation in Livonia to employ handicapped individuals as sorters of returned bottles at 7-Up's Detroit plant.

A Torch Drive agency, New Horizons offers vocational training and job placement for handicapped young adults. The Bureau of Rehabilitation (BR) is a state service agency for the handicapped.

To date, 19 clients referred by the Bureau of Rehabilitation and one

New Horizons client have been trained in bottle sorting and inspection and placed at the 7-Up plant, earning more than minimum wage plus full fringe benefits.

Those employed include Douglas Kamar, Steve Blossingham, Kevin Robarge and Terry Smith of Wayne.

The sorters staff two shifts, one from 4 p.m. to 12 midnight and the second from 12 midnight to 8:30 a.m. In addition to sorting several different kinds of bottles, they watch for damaged bottles and stack cases of returnables for storage at the plant.

A third shift may be implemented early in the spring and 7-Up hopes eventually to promote some of the sorters to other jobs, possibly including supervisory positions.

The simulated on-the-job program used in Farmington taught clients to quickly distinguish the different kinds of bottles, check for cracks and chips, and place each bottle in the proper container.

The program was sponsored by the Bureau of Rehabilitation, with equipment given by the 7-Up-Canada Dry Bottling Company. A 7-Up consultant also worked with New Horizons in setting up the training program.

"We've been very pleased with our new employees," said an enthusiastic Dave Stewart, general manager for 7-Up. "They're productive and reliable."

Response from New Horizons and the Bureau of Rehabilitation has been equally positive. Jane Weber, rehabilitation coordinator for New Horizons, worked hard to get the project off the ground.

"We were extremely pleased with the close cooperation we had with both BR and 7-Up," she said. "Much of this program's success is due to 7-Up's willingness to sit down with us and explain exactly what they expected from their employees. We then were able to tailor the training program to suit their specific needs."

Counselor Dan Dankoff from the Bureau of Rehabilitation considers the program "workable and cooperative" and feels that everything has "worked out beautifully so far."

Both agencies hope to use the program as a model for similar ones with other businesses. Those interested should call Israel Hochberg, New Horizons Executive director, at 338-6176.

New Horizons is headquartered at 117 Turk St. Pontiac. The agency serves about 450 mentally and physically impaired individuals each year, training them in job skills that utilize their abilities.

Hard at work

Michigan's new returnable bottle law may be a headache for some folks, but for others it's a chance for employment and at being a part of society. Kevin Robarge of Wayne, through the help of New Horizons of Oakland County Inc., is among 19 handicapped young adults who have been especially trained and hired to work with returnable bottles at the 7-Up-Canada Dry Bottling Company of Detroit. The young people sort bottles by size and keep a lookout for damaged containers. They also stack the containers for storage in the firm's Detroit plant. In return the company is paying the handicappers above the minimum wage and full fringe benefits.

"HOW CAN A 'MEMORY BOOK' HELP MY CHILD?"

HAROLD REDISKE JR.

When a child's father (or mother) dies, talking about the child's concerns and relieving his anxieties about the loss are important in working-through the grief experience. The "Memory Book" is an effective device for this.

It is a scrapbook-and-keepsake in which the children may write down their memories of their parent, or, if the children are too young to write, have the parent write as the children "talk it out."

The Memory Book helps because, in it, the children openly relate their shared experiences, feelings and remembrances. The remembering and talking about the deceased parent offers the proper outlet for grieving... and understanding and accepting the fact of the loss.

Photos of the parent may be put in the book, especially if the pictures include the children, thus aiding recall and discussion. The activity, itself, is important. It puts everything out in the open and into family talk. It will assist in providing good and stable remembrances of the deceased parent as the children grow up.

Things that matter

By GEORGE PLAGENZ
United Feature Syndicate

Before the first Cleveland prayer breakfast (which I had a hand in organizing), I called a clergy friend of mine to invite him to attend. "I'd love to come," he said, "but I will be out of town that day."

What this clergyman probably doesn't realize — unless he is reading this now — is that I never told him on what day the breakfast was going to be held.

I suppose you could say I caught this minister in a lie. Yet he was just trying to be nice.

He probably figured I would be hurt if he told me he wouldn't be caught dead at prayer breakfast, so he invented a good excuse to spare my feelings.

If only he had waited until I had told him when the prayer breakfast was to be, he would have been home free.

In any case, he was just following a precept I have laid down for years: Kindness often is better than honesty.

Whenever anybody looks me straight in the eye and says, "I'm going to be honest with you, George." I shudder. I know I'm going to be told something I don't want to hear.

Save me from such honest people! I also want to be saved from dishonest people like the auto mechanic who says he put in a new fuel pump — and charges you for it — when he has put in a rebuilt one.

Do I seem to be saying that some dishonesty is excusable and some isn't? That's what I'm saying.

I realize the danger of saying that. If people get the idea that it's OK to lie sometimes, they may start to lie whenever it suits their purpose. Little lies often are like being a little pregnant. What starts small almost always grows into something bigger.

In lying and truth-telling were always a matter of black and white, there would be no problem. But they aren't.

I wonder whether more harm than we realize isn't done in the world by some truth-tellers — people, for example, who engage in gossip (which we all do). Frequently, the gossip we pass along is true, but it often can do more injury than lying.

The good gray New York Times, which would "rather die than lie" any day, has been hot on the trail of the "truth" behind the death of Nelson Rockefeller.

And it is no credit to us that we are avidly devouring it all.

Maybe the Times editors should clip that verse from a hymn in the Christian Science hymnal which says: "Each will his brother's failings hide" (especially when the man is dead), and paste it on the bathroom mirror so they can read it each morning when they shave.

Cantor lecture planned

Art lovers and antique collectors alike can enjoy the March 8 offering of the 27th annual Henry Ford Museum Antique Lecture Series.

Jay E. Cantor, a noted lecturer on art, architecture and the decorative arts, will look at the American scene as it was depicted in historic pictures and prints.

In "A Not So Perfect Likeness: Pictures as Documents," Cantor will explore the historical information, as well as the perspective of the artist in American prints and pictures, often suggesting how the attitudes of the day may have influenced the accuracy of the scenes.

According to Cantor, pictures, like words, sometimes can be misleading. His presentation, illustrated by color slides, should stimulate a keener awareness of paintings and prints as visual documents and aid collectors in evaluating, and correctly interpreting their content.

Cantor is head of American paintings, Christie, Manson and Woods International Inc., New York, and frequently writes and lectures on various aspects of the arts. He has taught at Cornell University and Bryn Mawr College, and earned his bachelor of arts degree at Cornell University, completed his master of arts degree in the Winterthur Program in American Art and Culture at the University of Delaware, and did pre-doctoral study at Bryn Mawr College.

The lecture begins at 8:30 p.m. in the museum theater. Admission is $3.

CITY OF ROMULUS NOTICE

LEGAL NOTICE TO FAMILIES WHO LIVED IN PUBLIC HOUSING PROJECTS OPERATED BY THE ROMULUS HOUSING COMMISSION OR LIVED IN PUBLIC HOUSING PROJECTS IN ANY OTHER CITY BETWEEN MARCH 16, 1971, - SEPTEMBER 26, 1975.

If you rented a house or apartment from the ROMULUS HOUSING COMMISSION or any other Public Housing Agency (PHA) during the period between March 16, 1971, and September 26, 1975, you may be eligible to file a claim for a refund of part of your rent during that period if:

1. The wife or husband of the head of the household was present and dependent upon the head of the household for support and/or;
2. a dependent member of your family household was employed.

If you believe your family falls within one of the categories described above, you may wish to continue reading this Notice in order to determine how and under what circumstances you may file a claim.

On July 7, 1978, the District Court of the District of Columbia entered a Stipulated Order providing that the definition of family income for purposes of computing maximum rentals for public housing, as contained in a HUD Circular, which excluded spouses from the $300 deduction for each dependent and excluded dependents from the $300 deduction for each secondary wage earner, was invalid and violated the United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended. The effect of this determination is that certain families who lived in public housing during the period from March 16, 1971, to September 26, 1975, may have been charged too much rent. Therefore, the District Court ordered HUD to establish a one million dollar fund for the payment of claims which current or former tenants of public housing may submit for a refund of any overpayments.

The District Court's Stipulated Order provides that, if valid claims exceed one million dollars, HUD has the option of having the Order dissolved in which case NTO and HUD may negotiate a modified settlement or proceed with further litigation. Thus, claimants should realize that the submittal of a claim determined valid by a PHA may result in full, partial, or no payment, depending on the total amount of valid claims submitted to HUD, or the final outcome of any further litigation. Any person wishing to receive a copy of the Stipulated Order or a claim form may do so by making their request known to a local PHA.

Individuals wishing to submit a claim must fill in the claim form made a part of this Notice and must submit it to the Public Housing Agency's address indicated on the claim form, or such other appropriate Public Housing Agency if different from the address indicated, within 120 days from Dec. 6, 1978. No claims will be accepted after the end of the 120 day period, April 6, 1979.

Information provided by the claimant on the claim form must be specific as to the time period between March 16, 1971, and September 26, 1975, for which the wife or husband of the head of the household was present and was a dependent and/or a dependent in the household was employed.

Publish every week until April 4.

Rev. Kilbourn set for Lenten series

The mid-week Lenten series is continuing at the Community United Methodist Church of Romulus, with tonight's program to include, dinner, a service and a film.

The series has a theme of "Visitation Outreach - A Relational Ministry." Dinner is served at 6:30 p.m., followed by worship at 7:15 p.m. at the elementary school located at 11165 Olive St.

On March 13 The Rev. George Kilbourn of Lola Valley United Methodist Church, followed by The Rev. Dr. Fred Vosburg of the Plymouth United Methodist Church on March 22.

The Rev. Mr. Dale Miller and the Stony Creek Band will be the guests March 27, with the Covenant Players to appear on April 5. On April 12, Maundy Thursday, there will be communion, but no dinner. According to next week's Guest, Rev. Kilbourn, evangelism in the local church is the task of the laity, the amateur, as opposed to the professional, the minister or paid staff members.

Employed by a large automaker, this former "layman" of 20 years, standing before entering into the full-time ministry held nearly all offices in his local church and a top position within the Flint District.

While serving in those various positions as a layman, he began to recognize many of the problems confronting the pastor in his relationships with his congregation, especially that of involving the laity in carrying out the work of the church.

Next Tuesday night he will be addressing the question of "Can an unskilled or inexperienced person, one who has but little knowledge of Jesus Christ, be entrusted to carry out a witness for Christ?"

MUSICAL NOTES

by Doug Brown

We live in a tough world that almost seems designed to make us feel bad about ourselves. Music can help make us feel better, since concentration on something other than self relieves self concern. If we can play a musical instrument well, we feel the confidence that competency gives. It also can help relieve the tensions of everyday life and give a calm to the musician and the audience whether family and friends or a public audience.

Whether you are a beginning musician or on your way to becoming a professional, make DOUG BROWN MUSIC, 9219 S. Wayne Rd., Romulus, 941-8484, your headquarters for everything musical. We are very proud to carry the complete line of Lowrey organs and Leslie speakers. Watch for our occasional specials.

'Scared Straight,' frightening reality

On Sunday March 11, television broadcasting will cross a new threshold of responsible public service.

At 10 p.m. on that day, viewers of WKBD TV, channel 50, will be offered a monumental dose of reality.

The medium often charged as being a 'vast wasteland', will itself provide a glimpse of what a vast wasteland really looks like.

"Scared Straight!", a hard-hitting television documentary about a prison program designed to scare the crime right out of juvenile delinquents, will be telecast on stations around the country this week.

One of the most compelling hours of television ever produced, the program is being sponsored in major television markets as a public service, without commercial interruption, by The Signal Companies.

As host, Peter Faulk guides us through Rahway State Prison in New Jersey and we witness an extraordinary program developed by a group of hardened criminals in that maximum security prison. An unlikely group of crime-fighters, these convicts, serving life sentences for murder and other major crimes, have committed themselves to helping juveniles get back on the right track.

Twice each day, with the full support of the prison officials and the surrounding community, a group of juveniles enter the prison to serve a three-hour "sentence."

The cameras allow us to join one such group of 17 chronic juvenile offenders as they get a dose of the prisoners' special brand of "shock therapy."

The frightened youngsters are forced to listen as the convicts describe in brutal and explicit detail the horrors and realities of prison life — the homosexual rapes, suicides and murders, the boredom, bells and brutality.

The convicts shout, swear and threaten violence — whatever it takes to shock the kids into realizing the consequences of their lives of crime.

To date, more than 10,000 teenagers have gone through the "lifers" program at Rahway. Participating communities report that 80 to 90 percent are scared into "going straight" by the terrifying experience.

A word of warning about "Scared Straight!": The program documents an actual session in prison and the language and descriptions of conditions are presented as they occurred.

The people in the film are not actors, but real convicts and juvenile delinquents. In order to preserve the essence of this effective method of crime prevention, the film has not been censored.

While this daring slice-of-life documentary will most probably gain notoriety for its explicit and brutal language, it will also get people talking about solutions to one of the major problems of today's society — the epidemic of juvenile crime.

"Scared Straight!" was produced, written and directed by five-time Emmy winner Arnold Shapiro and is being presented nationally through syndication.

"Scared Straight" is not family entertainment.

It is intended to provide a realistic view of prison life and its impact on those confined to it.

If profanity, vulgarity and threatened violence make you ill, don't watch this program.

While you may feel that your kids would never get themselves into trouble and should not be subjected to this film, they will no doubt survive the airing of this program.

Fathers would best watch this program with their sons while mother watches in another room with daughter. Your kids could become embarrassed with such language in the presence of both parents and much of the potential impact will be lost.

But regardless of your reaction to 'Scared Straight', please call or write and let us know how you felt about the program.

This may be an unusual place for a book review, but if you are interested in planning ahead for the crisis which some experts see just around the corner, one book is a must.

"How to Prosper During the Coming Bad Years," by Howard Ruff is a capsule summary of this country's impending bout with 'depression'.

That's right depression.

According to Ruff, a syndicated columnist, talk show host, and publisher of a monthly economic newsletter, the prospects for depression are good. And only the prepared will survive relatively unscathed.

While many of Ruff's recommendations will most probably shock the average reader (food storage among them), we think his book could well prepare the reader for the possible situation at the least possible cost should his predictions fail to come about.

Included in this manual for survival during the worst possible economic times, Ruff provides a comprehensive outline of the best place for your money now, and in the future should his 'depression' or 'hyper-inflation' projections be realized.

While we do not endorse the content of Ruff's book or any of his predictions, it is a wise man who prepares for the future.

To be sure, many economic experts have rejected Ruff and his economic theories. Many have also endorsed his comments.

For that reason, we recommend 'How to Prosper During the Coming Bad Years', as recommended reading for everyone concerned with access to both sides of the current economic story.

Van Buren's 'Brush' with justice

By DENNIS FASSETT
Managing Editor

"It is a heinous thing they have done," said Circuit Court Judge Charles Kaufman. "They are worse than common criminals."

Those remarks set the stage for the confrontation between seven elected officials and the long-arm of the law.

This latest scene in the continuing saga of what has now become, principle versus technical law, was acted out last week at circuit court and the Wayne County jail.

Trudging slowly toward the jailhouse under the ever watchful eye of several pistol toting sheriffs, the entire, handcuffed, government of Van Buren Township, was being locked up for contempt of Kaufman's court. They had refused to act as Kaufman's tool for securing the rights of two developers whose project could have compromised the rights of thousands of Van Buren's residents.

Several years ago, the two developers proposed to the Van Buren Township Planning Commission, a mobile home park for the community that would be located across the street from Ypsilanti's overloaded sewer system. The system which has been suspected of contributing largely to the pollution of Belleville Lake.

Several hundred yards away was located access to Van Buren sewers which could have handled the park's waste water with little problem.

It was only natural that the developers preferred to hook up to the Ypsilanti system, which was closer, and therefore a less expensive proposition.

While the developers applied to the planning commission for approval, they never presented themselves at the meeting when their project was to be discussed. As was its normal policy, the commission denied the request because the petitioners were not present.

The developers, rather than re-petition for a hearing before the planners or the township board, decided to take the matter directly to court without bothering with normal procedures.

At circuit court, the township attorney, who has since been fired, handled the case very badly and never explained to Judge Kaufman that the developers had not followed procedure and had never been denied approval for the project.

Kaufman ruled in favor of the developers. When the township board, with its new attorney, tried to explain the actual situation, Kaufman refused to hear their testimony because the case had already been decided.

Van Buren's officials, feeling that their case was strong, refused to comply with Kaufman's order to grant the developers permits. Their hope was that in future discussion, the facts surrounding the case would eventually be allowed into the court record.

When push came to shove last Dec. and the officials still had not complied with Kaufman's order, the judge found all seven guilty of contempt of court and they were thrown into jail.

Released on appeal, the officials were ordered to sit as a board and approve the mobile home project and its connection into the Ypsilanti sewer system.

They again refused.

They are again in jail.

But this time, the good judge went one step further.

He ordered that the seven officials would remain in jail until they agreed to sign the permits for the mobile home project. In addition, should any of them decide to resign their seats on the board of trustees in order to avoid having to comply with the judge's order, they would be jailed for a year.

Ah yes, the wheels of justice!

Apparently because of a legal technicality, Judge Kaufman is willing to ignore the legitimate concerns of 20,000 Van Buren residents, in order to protect the rights of two developers who want to save money. And at the same time, he threw five elected officials into jail (two have now buckled to Kaufman's order) for an extended period to accomplish what he feels is best for Van Buren.

Kaufman is correct when he concluded that a heinous thing had been done in his court.

Essential justice was ignored, and the wheels of justice lost a spoke.

Systemic Lupus, difficult to diagnose

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

Yesterday, a Westland resident, Dee Makowski, dropped into my office with a letter she had intended to put in the mail, but decided to hand deliver. We had a most interesting chat, and the product of that conversation will be this column.

Mrs. Makowski is the Treasurer of the Michigan Lupus Foundation, West Suburban Chapter.

She was diagnosed two years ago as being afflicted with lupus; a disease which can be defined in lay terms as a chronic inflammatory disease of the connective tissue.

Indeed, upwards of 500,000 Americans may be so afflicted with this hard-to-diagnose malady. Virtually any tissue or body organ can be affected, the disease usually appearing in women who are of child-bearing age (16 to 35 approximately).

According to the Michigan Lupus Foundation, lupus is one of a group of diseases known as collagen diseases. Others in the group include poly-arthritis nodosa, scleroderma, dermatomyositis, and arthritis.

This group of diseases are called auto-immune diseases, which means that the body's natural defense system has become faulty and the individual's antibodies start reacting against their own body tissues.

While researchers fairly well understand the manifestations of the disease, the cause is still unknown. Some believe that a virus is the causative agent, while others feel the sun, certain medications, stress, or other factors are responsible for lupus.

There are two main types of lupus; systemic and discoid.

Systemic lupus involves the internal organs of the body, and the discoid type involves the skin. It is possible for a patient to have either or both types.

Symptoms vary with each individual, depending on which part of the body is involved. Some of the more common symptoms are fever, weakness, fatigue, weight loss, joint pains, and a butterfly-type of rash over the bridge of the nose and cheeks — a rash which is usually sun sensitive.

One of the more tragic aspects of this disease is the fact that it can be so easily misdiagnosed because of the variability of the symptoms and the marked similarity to other diseases.

Chris Whitbeck, writing in the 'Denver Post' said that in some instances the individual who has been attacked by lupus may actually be diagnosed as someone who is mentally unstable.

For instance, a patient may go to the doctor one year with signs of anemia, a few years later with renal disease, two years later with plurisy, six months later with a swollen joint — and each time the symptoms disappear entirely.

According to Ron Carr, MD, a researcher at Denver's National Jewish Hospital, "After going through such conflicting symptoms, only to have them disappear, even the most normal patient might begin to believe that he is coming close to cracking up."

Dr. Carr also said that in cases where the disease attacks the central nervous system, the result can be schizophrenia for a month or two to one year, and manic-depressive syndrome or epilepsy the next.

According to the Michigan Lupus Foundation, in early, less severe cases, analgesics, rest, and good nutrition may be all that is necessary to treat the disease.

The Foundation also said that the prognosis is much better today than it was even 10 years ago. Increased awareness of the disease and improvement in diagnostic tests make early diagnosis possible. Early diagnosis makes it possible to initiate treatment before any damage can be done to the organs.

Mrs. Makowski said that membership in the Michigan Lupus Foundation is open to lupus patients, family members, and to anyone interested in learning more about the disease.

The West Suburban Chapter of the Foundation meets every third Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the log cabin in the Garden City Park (Cherry Hill and Merriman).

If we consider that diseases such as smallpox and polio are now virtually non-existent, then perhaps we can look at lupus and hope that increased support from the communities buttressed with more sophisticated research will obviate any more columns such as this one.

Congress eyes more 'Perks'

By RICHARD L. LESHER, President
Chamber of Commerce
Of the United States

Like most Americans, you probably consider yourself a reasonable person. So perhaps you would agree it only fair, now that Congress has received a handsome payraise, more money for office allowances, postal patron mailings, staff salaries, recreation and travel expenses, that enses, that taxpayers finally be given a break.

Silly you. You see, certain Congressmen — thankfully not all — are going after something much bigger. They are pushing for passage of H.R. 1, a bill which would mandate public financing of their own Congressional campaigns.

If that bill becomes law, it will be tantamount to offering House members job insurance at taxpayers' expense — a kind of giant Incumbents Protection Bill.

Stripped of its niceties, public financing legitimizes coercion, for it permits the federal government to force an individual to contribute to a candidate who he or she may not support. Clearly, that is unfair.

But public financing also suffers from two other fundamental flaws. Both the explanation of why it is needed and how it would work are false. Consider why.

At first glance, the argument for public financing seems as pure as newly-fallen snow. We are warned that we must pass it immediately, or witness the total contamination of our electoral process by the flood of campaign contributions which are coming from sinister and selfish special interest groups.

Sorry, but the latest official figures of financial activities through Nov. 27, 1978, from the Federal Election Commission prove precisely the opposite.

During the 1978 Congressional campaigns, a total of $198.5 million was spent on all races. Of that total, more than $130 million, or about two-thirds, was donated by individual Americans, mostly in the form of small contributions of less than $100. That's a very healthy sign.

In contrast, all business and labor political action groups combined gave $32 million in contributions, or just 16 percent. A participation of 16 percent can hardly be called excessive or corrupting.

On paper, public financing at least seems plausible. Candidates who could certify they had raised $1,000 in private contributions could receive matching public funds of up to $60,000. In exchange for accepting taxpayers' money, each candidate would have to agree on a spending limit of $195,000. And no candidate could spend more than $25,000 of personal funds.

But, in reality, this so-called reform could quickly degenerate into a political nightmare. How? Let us count just a few of the ways.

First, because of several perfectly legal loopholes, public financing would undoubtedly lead to more, not less spending on political campaigns.

For example, any time one candidate in a district wants to spend more than $25,000 of personal funds, which is his or her Constitutional right, or raise more than $75,000 from any legal source, then the spending ceiling for all other candidates accepting public funds is removed. The taxpayers could be stuck with unbelievable costs.

Second, contrary to the will of the people, public financing will result in more bureaucracy. Fifteen presidential candidates who took advantage of the presidential public financing law in the 1976 campaign generated 12 million pages of information for the Federal Election Commission. Can anyone even conceive what the legal and paperwork burden would be for approximately 870 House candidates and 200 Senate candidates?

Third, public financing would, in theory, make it easier for challengers to compete. But in reality, the law would permanently lock in the tremendous advantage already enjoyed by incumbents. In 1978, 95 percent of all House incumbents running were re-elected.

That was no accident. Even before a campaign begins, an incumbent is busy increasing his name recognition through such tax-supported "nonpolitical" activities as mass mailings, press releases, press conferences and newsletters, all of which are worth about $1 million over the course of a two-year term.

Starting out this far ahead, an incumbent has everything to gain by locking an unknown challenger into a spending limitation when the campaign begins.

I do not believe Americans are ready to relinquish control of their elections to a federal bureaucracy, the Federal Election Commission. If that is not true, then why have only 27 percent of all federal taxpayers agreed to support political campaigns for the presidency through the income tax check-off system?

People intuitively understand that ultimate control of the political process must remain in their own hands at the local level. We can be thankful the wise words of Thomas Jefferson have not gone unheeded:

"That government is the strongest of which every man feels himself a part."

Spring break lament

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

Spring break! I don't know what that means to you but what it means to me is utter chaos.

For days before the beginning of that exciting time I make like all good mothers, running around dusting and scrubbing and putting on clean sheets, with a song in my heart and a dance in my toes.

And then he comes home! Banging through the front door he drops a pair of size 12 shoes in the hallway, his sleeping bag on the coffee table, and all of his unwashed, unironed clothes in the den.

When spring breaks first came to my family, lo! these many years ago, I used to run along behind the kid, picking up the shoes, the sleeping bag, and the unwashed, unironed clothes. But after six kids I've lost my zip.

"He's only going to be here a week," I tell his father who grumbles a lot when he tries to find an empty chair to sit in.

However, yesterday had to be the climax of all spring breaks for the last fifteen years. The kid who came home is the one who had the car junk yard for so many summers on the front lawn where he happily exchanged parts of cars for cameras, ski's or sometimes even a date with a special girl.

He was sound asleep when his father and I went out to breakfast and we had a nice, clean, breakfast with a hovering waitress and all the accoutrements my husband dreams of in his daily living.

When we got home and walked into the kitchen, there was Uncle Gunnar on the floor with George (our dog) eating breakfast.

"What are you doing on the floor?" my husband asked.

"Well look at that table," Uncle Gunnar said in disgust. "Could YOU eat on it?"

Well naturally he had a point. There aren't very many people who could eat on a table filled with bicycle wheels, handlebars, and other parts of a once beautiful 10-speed bike.

The dining room table had little boxes filled with spare parts and the coffee table had two cm taken apart and littered all over.

Last night when we returned from a movie my love picked up a sleeping bag and two pairs of shoes from his chair.

"Where are the cushions?" he yelled, and looking around we saw that there wasn't a chair nor a sofa with a cushion.

"David is sleeping on them," Uncle Gunnar said.

"Sleeping on them? Why?" his father shouted.

"He said his bed is full of spare parts and he doesn't want to disturb them."

The spring break has only seven more days to go and if I manage to live through it I know what I am going to do on the day he leaves. I will follow him to the car, helping him carry his stuff; I will throw my arms around the six-foot plus of him and hug him and kiss him and say goodbye. Then I will go into my clean, clean house...and sit down and bawl!

The impact of Headlee undetermined

By ROBERT LAW
State Representative
36th District

When voters narrowly approved the Headlee tax limitation amendment last fall, they broadly curbed state and local government blank check spending for the first time in Michigan's history.

The Headlee became a part of the State Constitution on December 22, and since then the legislature has begun grappling with the difficult task of implementing the complex amendment. Governor Milliken appointed a task force of government, business and professional people to study the Headlee and come up with recommendations on how best to implement it.

But after full discussion and exchange, there was considerable difference of opinion. What did become clear, however, is that certain issues are more important than others.

Two of those issues are "state mandated costs" and the "millage rollback." And the legislature's attempt to comprehend and interpret those issues promises to provoke an arduous debate.

Eventually, implementation legislation may be challenged in the courts. So far now, there are no definitive answers, and we are just beginning to examine the questions.

The Headlee Amendment puts a lid on state spending by limiting it to a fixed ratio of the amount the state spends in the 1978-79 fiscal year and the total personal income Michigan residents earned in the 1977 calendar year. This figure is calculated by dividing the 1978-79 tax revenues by the 1977 personal income of the state.

Personal income in the state totalled $69.6 billion in 1977, and the state's revenues for the present year have not yet been calculated. But the percentage is estimated to work out to anywhere from 9.65 percent to 9.844 percent, depending on at least three variables.

Tax revenues obviously depend on what the economy does in the remainder of the fiscal year, and the state's economic experts in the Department of Management and Budget are forecasting a downturn. Tax revenues this year will also depend on how the Supreme Court rules on the transportation package—remember there are petitions calling for the rollback of the state's new gas and weight taxes. And finally, the revenues would change if there is any additional tax increase.

The Taxation Committee is presently considering a bill that would cut property taxes and increase the personal income tax to 5.5 percent. This could increase the base year for the purposes of the Headlee calculation.

The legislature has little to do with the direction of the economy or the Supreme Court ruling on the transportation package, it can, however, decide to raise the Headlee limit by approving the above proposal, or adhere to the intent of the voters when they approved Headlee and keep base year revenues down.

But those questions aside, the entire issue of "state mandated costs" will be the most controversial and difficult implementation aspect of the Headlee Amendment.

The "state mandated costs" refers to that section of the Headlee Amendment which requires the state in the future to pay local units of government for all mandated increases in activities or services. This means that if in the future the legislature were to decide that a particular subject area must be taught in public schools, the state would have to pay the "necessary costs." So in the next few months, the legislature will be forced to address what constitutes a mandate, as well as how to calculate the "necessary costs."

The second major area requiring implementation legislation is the "millage rollback." The Headlee Amendment requires all taxing units to roll back their millage rates if the value of existing property (this excludes new property and improvements) increases faster than the rate of inflation. But the question is whether the authorized rate or the levied rate is subject to the rollback. For example, say a city charter authorized 20 mills and a city council votes to levy 12 mills. Would the rollback be applicable to the 20 mill authorized rate or the 12 mill levied rate? Clearly, if the authorized rate is used in this example and the rollback if from 20 to 19 mills, it would have no effect on an individual's property tax bill.

Implementation of the Headlee Amendment will be difficult and time consuming, and, ultimately, the decision on what the Headlee really means may be made by the courts. In the next few months the legislature will be meeting the challenge of the Headlee Amendment head-on as we begin to determine just what effect limiting state spending has on our government and our programs.

On the Brighter Side

To do anything for nothing

By JIM BRADLEY

Being a columnist is a lot of fun. It can also be a perplexing job. Perplexing, that is, in the sense of trying to guess how many people read your column each week.

Just about the time you're sure that hardly anyone reads it — a flow of unsolicited comments praise your efforts.

That's what happened to me Monday afternoon when advertising man Harvey Walker and I had a bowl of soup at a nearby restaurant.

Kathy Swarthout, a blond waitress, asked how my diet was coming. "Slow but sure," I replied, not sure just how "sure" it was coming.

She read in my column that I was going on a diet a few weeks back and she never failed to remind me that I "put it in writing" for all to see.

Even though we weren't in her section, I motioned to Kathy and asked if she could bring me another package of crackers for my bowl of soup. "You'll never lose weight that way," she advised me as she dropped the crackers on the table.

"These are calorieless crackers, aren't they?" I asked. "I only had two poached eggs for breakfast so these crackers won't hurt too much," I tried to rationalize.

"Oh, by the way, what kind of rhetoric was it that you were accused of?" she asked.

"Taut-o-logical" I said, sounding out each syllable. Since she knew about that, I figured she read my column a little, at least.

"I read about you getting a red carnation from a lady last week. If fact, your column is a real asset to the community," she said.

My self-image was beginning to grow inexorably and my enthusiasm was indefatigable. (Not only that, I felt pretty good!)

Harvey busted my bubble with, "Oh, do you write a column, Jim?" (I know I should have said "burst," but "busted" carries more punch).

So, Monday was one-and-one. A blond waitress reads my column with a passion and my compatriot, who sits hardly 15 feet from my desk, doesn't know my column exists.

I guess you could say I'm an average writer. But even that has its advantages.

The cartoon "Ziggy" by Tom Wilson says, "One nice thing about being average... you're no farther from the top than you are from the bottom!"

Laboring unrecognized, never having received so much as a rejection from Michigan Press Association awards committee, I recall a motto I once saw on a wall.

It read: "We the willing, led by the unknowing, are doing the impossible for the ungrateful. We have done so much for so long for so little, we are now qualified to do anything for nothing."

Let's take a quick poll. If you read my column each week, would you please raise your right hand? Hmm...let's see...one...two...three. Three raised their right hands and one raised his left hand. A third is trying to decide which is which...

Of course, I could be more scientific and take a count by phone. It would be called a telephone poll.

Regardless, two recent phone calls made me realize that I may not have to labor in anonymity much longer. Two teachers from Stevenson Junior High School — Pat Hinke and Bobby Warnock — phoned me and asked if I would meet with their classes to discuss writing.

The odd part is that Pat didn't know Bobby was going to call and vice-versa. In fact, Pat called about two weeks before Bobby and asked if I would speak at their Career Day on March 15 and talk about writing.

Bobby, finding time growing short, called the Wayne County Intermediate School District and asked for a good local newspaper writer to call. For some unknown reason, someone at the Intermediate School District mentioned my name and I got the call.

Well, the result of all this is that I'm going to meet with Stevenson Junior High students four times on the morning of March 15 to discuss writing. And I figure there's only two possible answers for them scheduling me to meet with the junior high kids four times.

Either they'll teach me enough about writing in that length of time that I'll learn to be a good writer. Or else they figure I'll be so thankful that I didn't become a school teacher that I'll buckle down and start turning out good columns.

Tornado season is here

The tornado season began with the first day of March, and for residents of Michigan the threat of a "twister" will last until early fall.

The Midwest, South and Southwest United States are the areas most severely affected, and the Red Cross recommends that you observe the warnings issued by the National Weather Service and note the precautionary measures outlined below:

TORNADO WATCH — A tornado may be expected to develop.

TORNADO WARNING — A tornado has been sighted, and persons near the danger area should take cover immediately. Those at a greater distance should be prepared to take cover if threatening conditions occur.

If you should yourself be in or near a tornado:

(1) IMMEDIATELY seek shelter in a storm cellar, underground excavation or steel framed or reinforced concrete building. Stay away from windows.

(2) At the OFFICE proceed to an interior hallway on the lowest floor, or to a designated shelter area. In a FACTORY workers should move to the section of the plant offering the most protection in accordance with advance plans.

(3) At HOME the basement offers the greatest safety. Persons in homes without basements should seek cover in the lowest and most centralized part of the house in a small space like a bathroom or closet, or under sturdy furniture. If there is time, open a few windows on the side opposite that of the expected twister.

(4) When warned of an approaching tornado, MOBILE HOME residents should be ready to take shelter in the nearest building. Some mobile home park operators provide storm shelters for their residents.

(5) In SCHOOLS students and personnel should go to an interior hallway on the lowest floor. Avoid auditoriums, gymnasiums or other structures with wide free-span roofs. If a building is not reinforced construction, go quickly to a nearby reinforced building or to a ravine or open ditch and lie flat.

(6) In OPEN COUNTRY where there is not time to find suitable shelter, persons should lie face down in the nearest depression, using their arms to shield their heads. Don't take shelter in an automobile.

The Red Cross offers emergency disaster assistance to victims of natural disasters. For further information call 833-4440.

Savings Bonds saw beginning in May 1941

On May 1, 1941, President Franklin D. Roosevelt purchased the first Series E U.S. Savings Bond from Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau, marking the beginning of a program that has had a great and beneficial effect on the American economy, and on the personal economy of millions of American families.

The Savings Bonds Program was a significant departure from the Treasury securities that had previously been sold. Earlier issues, in both large and small denominations, were all marketable and, therefore, were subject to market fluctuations. Unknown buyers had sometimes found, to their dismay, that these issues, if cashed before maturity, might return less than they originally cost.

Series E Bonds were different. Sold at 75 percent of face amount, they were non-negotiable, registered, and had guaranteed principal and interest. No one could lose money on them. And they came with prices, starting at $18.75, that almost everyone could afford.

During the Second World War, the Treasury called on volunteers from all walks of life to help sell Bonds. Massive volunteer participation became a hallmark of the program, and remains so today.

Spurred by the patriotic fervor of war, Savings Bonds became the most widely held security in history. With the coming peace, the fervor slackened, but the Bond Program continued to grow. People discovered what an effective savings instrument Bonds could be. They are easy to purchase. Automatic installment buying through the Payroll Savings Plan offered by 40,000 firms allows individuals the opportunity to save regularly, no matter what their income.

Today, the value of Savings Bonds held by the public stands at more than $80 billion, one-sixth of the publicly-held portion of the debt. These holdings help Treasury debt managers keep the cost of the debt down by lengthening its average maturity, thus lessening the frequency of refinancing efforts. This has broader economic repercussions which can add up to an improved economic climate for the entire nation.

Because of interest rate improvements and other benefits, Savings Bonds are as attractive now as they have ever been. The yield is 6 percent when the Bonds are held to maturity. Interest is exempt from state or local income taxes, and federal tax on E Bonds may be deferred until they are cashed or reach final maturity. As registered securities, Bonds may also be replaced free if lost, stolen, mutilated, or destroyed. There is no safer way to save.

For all these reasons, more than 9½ million Americans regularly purchase Savings Bonds. They have found them to be an easy, convenient way to improve their financial position.

Demonstration will highlight rock polishing

A demonstration of Lapidary (rock polishing) will be presented at the nature center of Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock on Sunday.

For the third consecutive year, members of the Great Lakes Rock Club will have equipment on hand to demonstrate various techniques for forming and polishing stones into pieces of jewelry.

The program is free, but vehicle entry permits are required—annual regular, $7, senior citizen, $2 or daily, $2.

For additional information contact the nature center at Oakwoods Metropark at 782-1255 (Flat Rock).

Benefit hockey has 'net results'

Wayne County Sheriff patrolmen and State Troopers work together to keep our highways safe, but they'll be competing against each other this Sunday in a benefit hockey game. The law enforcement officers will meet at 4 p.m. Sunday at Plymouth Cultural Center 525 Farmer St., Plymouth, with proceeds going to the Plymouth Hockey Association. Referee Craig Brass holds the puck while Ptl. Michael Geldmacher of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department (left) and State Trooper R.G. Zellman take a good look at the "net results." Ken Garner can be called at 455-6623 for information about the hockey clash. Tickets, priced at $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for students, senior citizens and children, age 12 and under, can be purchased at the door. There will be entertainment between periods, including clowns and also a Score-O-game where spectators will have the opportunity to try and score a goal to win prizes.

Sprouts battle cancer

Extracts of wheat sprouts, mung beans, and lentils display a powerful action against chemical mutagens in bacterial tests and are being examined for cancer-preventing ability in mice, it was reported at a southwest regional meeting of the American Chemical Society.

If animal studies bear out results obtained so far on bacteria, "it would lend support to the dietary goals recommended by the McGovern sub-committee, that is less meat, fat, and more vegetables, fruits, and whole grains in the American diet," reported Dr. Chiu-Nan Lai of the University of Texas System Cancer Center, Houston. Coauthors of the report are Drs. Betty J. Dabney and Charles R.

Shaw. Chlorophyll is the major active constituent of wheat extract. In green plants chlorophyll is responsible for converting sunlight into chemical energy. By itself, chlorophyll is a potent inhibitor of the chemical mutagens, requiring only small amounts to produce an effect, said Dr. Lai.

Application of extract to potent chemical mutagens, such as 2-acetylaminofluorene, diminished activity in the Ames test for mutagens by up to 99 percent. The popular Ames test measures the ability of chemicals to mutate bacterial cells—an indication of possible carcinogenicity, the authors say in a summary of their report. "These results are of interest for two reasons: The inhibition of activation of carcinogens is quite strong at a reasonably low level of extract, and the wheat sprout extract is nontoxic even at high levels, while most inhibitors are toxic at medium to high levels," the report stated.

The usefulness of the extract is limited, however, to those chemicals which require activation by body enzymes before they can exert a mutagenic effect.

"No inhibition was observed in conjunction with carcinogens not requiring metabolic activation," they pointed out.

To extend these observations to living animals, the authors are examining the effect of extract on mice treated with a chemical known to produce colon cancer.

Justin wins state wrestling crown

Cline, Meyer, Winekoff, Lucas finish in 2nd place

JOE JUSTIN

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Joe Justin owns the highest award offered a wrestler by the Michigan High School Athletic Association. The 17-year-old Belleville High senior became the first wrestler in that school's history to win a Class A state title.

And the 119-pound grappler also accomplished the feat with an untarnished record. He won all four of his matches at the state tournament to complete his prep career with a perfect 37-0 record.

"We're really proud of what this young man has accomplished," said Belleville Coach Gerald Malecek.

"He has worked hard for this and winning the state title is a plateau that each and every high school athlete strives for but few ever accomplish."

Justin's performance plus the efforts of Rick and Carl Winekoff helped Belleville to its best finish in the state - third place - half-point behind Hazel Park which finished runner-up (59½) to Temperance Bedford. Bedford ran away with the team trophy on the strength of 105 points.

The area also produced four state runners-up thanks to sterling performances by Belleville's Carl Winekoff, Romulus' Darren Cline, Westland John Glenn's Bill Meyer and Dearborn Heights Robichaud's John Lucas.

Wayne Memorial's Dave Lusk finished third, while Belleville's Rick Winekoff earned a sixth place medal.

Justin fought off a tough and stubborn opponent, Southfield Lathrup's Rob Parent, to win the state title at 119. The margin of victory was 13-12.

Meanwhile, Romulus, despite losing a year in wrestling because of millage woes, proved it is back with the outstanding efforts of Cline who came within one victory of walking off with the gold.

Cline challenged Flint Northwestern's Derrek Williams for the heavyweight title and settled for second best in the state when he wound up on the shortend of a 7-3 decision.

Carl Winekoff, a senior, proved he is among the best in the state as he bounced three opponents at the state tournament before reaching the finals of the 145 pound class. Carl also lost a thrilling 7-3 verdict to Ann Arbor Huron's Tim Fagan.

In the 155-pound bout, Glenn's rugged Bill Meyer found Grandville's Jack Nicholson ready. Despite some excellent moves by the Westlander he lost a 5-1 decision and settled for a silver medal.

The Sports Meridian

An icy reception for Niemi

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

It's been pretty rough on Tom Niemi this year.

First, someone snatches one of his top cagers who is now shooting against the Belleville coach's team instead of for it.

Then the veteran cage coach loses two key players - Scott Straight and Charlie Blackmon to injuries.

And, early Monday morning Niemi got into his car and drove from his home to Temperance Bedford, the southern most tip of the Michigan and Ohio border.

He was going to take part in the cage drawings for the Class A District which Bedford is host.

Picture Niemi driving along, whistling a tune or listening to the radio.

Then, he hits a streak of ice and learns the hard way that the area had a ice storm during the evening.

And, that's not all - when Niemi arrives at Temperance he finds the school closed. Ice storm. What about the pairings? It was postponed until the next day.

Can you picture Niemi driving all the way back?

Now if we had a tape of what he was mumbling during those two hours, we possibly could blackmail him.

There is only one way Niemi says he could be soothed — if his Tigers would win the District championship. But that would be at the expense of Romulus and Coach Rod Hanna.

And, of course, if the Tigers pass that test, they would probably meet third-ranked Class A state power, Ypsilanti.

And, as everyone in these parts knows, there is no love lost between these two teams.

The Reitz athlete but wrong sport

It's also been a rough week in these parts.

First, ex-New Boston Huron cross country and track coach Mike Matthews calls and says that the column on Randy Pichan last week is an excellent one.

Whenever someone begins with praise watch for the however... "However," said Matthews, "I just wanted you to know that in the conclusion of that article you stated that Gene Reitz would be Pichan's teammate."

"That's highly unlikely because Gene is a cross-country enthusiast and was one of the top performers on my team while at Huron. In fact, he was the MVP and an all-league candidate for three years and won the conference individual championship as a senior," Matthews pointed out.

Matthews left the coaching and teaching scene in 1977 to take a job with IBM as an assistant engineer. Obviously, he still continues to put the material on these pages through his computer.

Nibert is legit All-American candidate

It's also interesting to note that John Nibert, the former Wayne Memorial cage star, could possibly wind up in an elite group at Albion College.

It is also possible the 21-year-old senior could be the first Albion cager to be given All-America recognition in basketball.

Nibert's credentials include a 24.3 scoring average this season which is a single season record. He compiled 558 points to break his old record of 511 set in a 27-game season.

Because of injury, John played in 23 of 24 games and has a career total now of 1,355 points, second best to only Mike Wilson who rang up 1,547 points during the years between 1966-70.

John can be counted on to hit on 55 percent of his shots from the field if this year's criteria are applied. He made 102 of an attempted 187. He was also ninth best in the conference at the free throw line where he tossed in 52 of 73 shots for 71 percent. Nibert averaged 10.4 rebounds for all games and 9.7 for the conference.

He was voted the Most Outstanding Player in the Division III Great Lakes Regional, NCAA, despite the fact that Albion finished third in tournament, having lost in overtime to the eventual champ, Baldwin-Wallace, 70-66. Nibert fouled out - the first time this year - with two minutes left in regulation after scoring 29 points.

"Nibert is definitely a candidate for All-American honors," said a member of the Albion sports information department. "I would be surprised if he did NOT make the team."

Ex-Glenn swim star eyes medical career

Another former area athlete, Tom Bird, is making news in college. Bird, a Westland John Glenn graduate who holds most of the Rockets' swimming records, will be graduating this spring from the University of Michigan.

TOM BIRD

Bird is a micro-biology major who has been accepted into medical school at the University of Michigan. He is also a member of the Zeta Psi Fraternity.

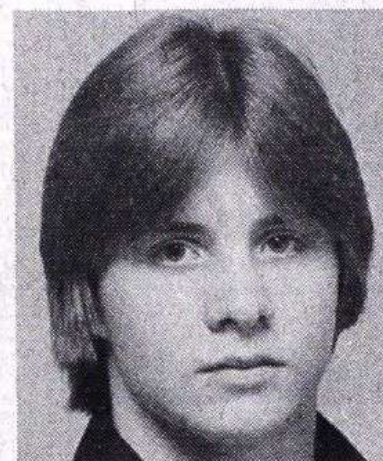

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bird of Greenbush Rd.

Now if we could get Tom back at Glenn and pick up Greg Dawkins, the outstanding swimmer from Stevenson Junior high who holds a bunch of state records for his age group, Glenn coach Jim Lawrence could put in for retirement.

WW swim & diving champs

Though they have been the power to reckon with at the Western Wayne Swimming & Diving Invitational, where they have won at least six titles, Belleville High will be gunning for Class A state power, Dearborn, when the two meet again Thursday and Friday at the annual Suburban 8 Conference championships. Ironically, Coach Sam Vicchy says that it isn't Dearborn, the defending champ, whom he'll be keeping his eyes on but Livonia Bentley, a team he labels as "the one to beat." The championships will be held beginning at 3 p.m. Thursday at the Schoolcraft Community College facilities. Pictured above are members of the 1978-79 Belleville team that finished the regular season with a 12-3 over-all record and a 5-2 conference mark.

Is this the year Belleville gets even with Dearborn?

Dearborn has always been a pain in the sides for Belleville.

The Pioneers have had it their way in the Suburban 8 Conference swimming circles, usually swimming circles around most of their competition.

But this year Belleville Coach Sam Vicchy feels it's time to put a stop to all of this nonsense. The Tigers are ready for the defending champs and for anyone else.

"Realistically, I feel we have a good shot at the conference championship, but Bentley is the team to beat and Dearborn, of course, will be there," said Vicchy before taking his charges to Schoolcraft where the championships will be held.

"I think you can sum it up this way - whoever swims well in the preliminaries, whoever qualifies the most for the finals will be the favorite."

Reminded that his team dropped two league meets and will be sporting a 5-2 record in the final meet, Vicchy said: "The way we feel about the league championships is that whoever wins the conference meet is the conference champ - that's the way the major conferences do it - they toss out their dual meet records," Vicchy said.

The championships will be hosted by Livonia Bentley which has shifted the site to the bigger and better Schoolcraft Community College facilities. On Thursday, the teams will gather for the swimming preliminaries at 3 p.m. and the diving preliminaries will follow immediately afterwards.

The finals for both the diving and the swimming events will be staged at 7:30 p.m. on Friday.

Meanwhile, Belleville destroyed Trenton 50-33 to wind down the

Cherry Hill '5' upset

Spartans share title with GC West

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Sports Writer

Cherry Hill coach Dick McNally insists Friday's upset, 72-69, defeat at the hands of Dearborn Heights Crestwood did not really hurt his ballclub which tied Garden City West for the Tri-River League title.

"We were flat after the West victory the previous game and I didn't want to take a chance on getting the boys up emotionally for Crestwood and then have them flat for the tournament this week," McNally explained.

But the Spartans have to be a little disappointed, at least, to tie for the title with identical 11-3 records with West, a team Cherry Hill defeated twice this year. West gained a share of the Tri-River crown with a convincing 59-44 win over Van Kosteigan's Taylor Kennedy Eagles Friday in the Eagle's dungeon. It was Cherry Hill's third consecutive Tri-River cage title.

Friday's results left Cherry Hill 16-4 on the season and Garden City West at 14-6.

"Be sure and give Crestwood a lot of credit," McNally emphasized. "It was parents' night and their kids were really up for the game. Still, we were up by five points going into the last quarter but we just couldn't put the ball in the hole."

Cherry Hill sank only 27 of 83 from the floor to Crestwood's 27 of 51 while the Spartans hit just 15 of 31 free throws to the Chargers' 18 of 27. Mark Bartlo, Crestwood's 6-1 all-league guard, popped in 35 points in the victory, while fluid Floyd Simmons slipped in 24 points and Pierre Hudson netted 21 for Cherry Hill.

Cherry Hill was scheduled to meet Dearborn St. Alphonsus on Tuesday night of this week in the opening round of the Class B district state basketball playoffs at Robichaud High School.

If the Spartans won that game and Inkster defeated Robichaud in their Monday night clash, Cherry Hill and Inkster were scheduled to meet in a long-awaited showdown Thursday night of this week.

But "March Madness" — state basketball tournament time — has rolled around again and it's a "new season" for everybody. And a lot of surprises are sure to take place in the one game elimination free-for-all that will crown one eventual high school champion in each of the four classes.

Belleville North gives Musser 'going-away' swim present

Belleville North swim coach Frank Musser received a "going-away present" from his swimmers as North stopped four-time champ and arch-rival, South, to win the 5th Annual Belleville Invitational Junior High Swimming and Diving Championships.

"I've decided to devote all of my time to the divers at the high school," said Musser, "and I was hoping to win this one."

North piled up 273 points and four individual first places to capture its first invitational crown. South was a close second and saw its hopes of continuing the monopoly destroyed despite getting off to an excellent start in the finals.

South leaped ahead by 32 points when North was disqualified in the 200-yard medley relay, "so, right off the bat we were down. But the kids didn't roll over and die, they came back," Musser said.

Doug Traskos accounted for two of the North first places as he won the 200-yard freestyle in 2:08.1 and the 100-yard freestyle in 58.14.

Mark Oddy's performances for South in the 50-yard freestyle (24.4) and the 100-yard backstroke (1:02.7) provided him with a pair of gold medals.

Franklin falls 79-71

McIntyre rips officiating after overtime loss at RU

Calling it the poorest officiating he has seen in his 16 years as coach, Livonia's Jim McIntyre lashed out against the refs after the Patriots dropped a 79-71 overtime decision at Redford Union Friday night.

"All five of my starters fouled out and Baker (Chris Baker, the Franklin's 6-4 center) played only eight minutes," said McIntyre, "and it got so bad that even the R.U. coach came over an apologized for the officials."

The game however goes on the record as a loss and that dipped Franklin's Northwest Suburban Conference mark to 6-4, while RU raised its record to 2-10.

McIntyre said his plans called for him to use the RU game as a tune-up for the districts, "however, now we're in a position where we're going to have to bounce back."

Franklin is scheduled to meet the winner of the Churchill and Northville game at 8:30 p.m., Wednesday, March 7 in the semi-finals of the district playoffs held at Livonia Churchill.

Bulldogs are cinch to win SAC title

Barring a catastrophe, Dearborn Heights Robichaud will retain the Suburban Athletic Conference swimming and diving crown on Friday.

Coach Jim Hadley's Bulldogs, undefeated in the league with a perfect 8-0 record, would have to finish in last place in order to jeopardize their title.

The next two challengers - River Rouge and Highland Park - will enter the conference championships with three losses.

"I can't see us losing this thing," Hadley said after his Bulldogs buried Ecorse 124-46. "Unless we're swept by the bubonic plague or something, that is something else."

Robichaud swept 10 of the 11 first places against Ecorse as Daren Sharkey captured the 200 and 100 yard freestyle events and Kevin Gustafson won the 200 yard individual medley and the 100-yard backstroke. Glen Carreathers chipped in the 50 and the 500 yard freestyle events.

Over the weekend, however, the Bulldogs were in deeper waters than they expected as they finished fourth in a field of four at the Marysville

"We're pleased with the draw because we possibly could make the finals if this game with RU doesn't haunt us," McIntyre said. (Franklin has beaten both Northville and Churchill during the season). The championship will be decided at Churchill on Friday at 7 p.m.

Livonia Stevenson was scheduled to meet the winner of Monday's contest between Livonia Bentley and Redford Thursday on Wednesday at 7 p.m.

Franklin, which beat RU by more than 25 points the first time around, was forced into the extra period when Jim Garden put in a layup with 12 seconds left in the fourth period. Garden's basket tied the game at 65-all, then the hosts went on to outscore the Patriots 14-6 in the overtime.

Baker scored eight points in the first period to stake Franklin to a 23-11 lead, but in the waning seconds of that quarter he was slapped with his fourth personal before McIntyre had an opportunity to yank him.

Franklin squandered its 12 point lead as RU, paced by rugged Bob Mouch took over 38-36 at intermission.

Outscored 13-10 in the third period, McIntyre's charges came back to go ahead 65-63 but starters Baker, Jim Wilson, Jeff Reich, Paul Berry and Gary DeYonker wound up on the bench due to five personals.

"It was a bad finish for a bunch of good kids," McIntyre pointed out, "and it's fortunate that the players showed restraint or it could have gotten pretty bad out there."

Four Franklin players reached double figures with Reich's 17 points leading the losers. Wilson had 12, while DeYonker and Tim Pryziecki each had 10.

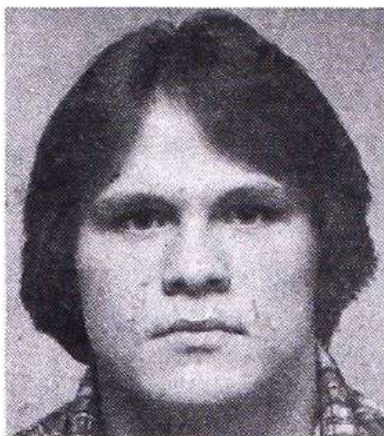

Paul Babits tossed in 18 to equal Mouch's output for the evening's high. RU also made 25 of 35 free throws which made the difference in this ball game.

heavyweight instead of wrestling at 191 where he was considered invincible, lost the Class B state title to Otsego's Mike Prough via a fall in 2:39. Lucas brought the curtains down to a 37-4-1 season - his only losses were to state champs. He managed to beat Zeeland's Mark Molewyk in 1:19. Charlotte's Brad Wright, 8-3, and Ron Dean of Corunna, 10-0, in the semi-finals.

"John is probably the finest young man that I have ever coached," said Robichaud coach Sam Ellis. "He was an excellent prospect to win the state title at 191, but we moved him up for the team's sake so that we could fare well at the district."

Lusk, a 165-pounder, claimed a third place medal by whipping Glen Blumer 7-0, while Rick Winekoff, the only junior in the bunch, established himself as one the leading contenders for a state title next year by finishing sixth with a 5-1 victory also at 165 over Lansing Sexton's Eric Temby.

Wayne '5' frolicks with Riverview

It was one evening when Coach Steve Schwartz could sit back and enjoy the action.

After all, how many times this season had his team led by 20 points after eight minutes?

That's what the Zebras did in the opening quarter, taken a 28-4 lead, then went on to score a 97-40 victory over Riverview Friday night at Riverview.

It was only Wayne's fourth win in 14 starts in the Great Lakes 8 Conference, but it was one which raised Schwartz' hope for the future.

"We started an all junior team," Schwartz said, "and they looked good."

Andy Daily staked Wayne to an 8-0 lead as he scored the first eight points and John Arthur tossed in the final eight of that period to give the Zebras a commanding 28-4 lead.

For all purposes the game was concluded at halftime when Wayne established a lopsided 48-15 advantage. They went on to outscore their hosts 25-10 and 24-15 the last two periods.

Five Wayne players reached double figures with Arthur's 16 leading the team. Daily finished with 12 and Kyle Poteau added 11.

Bruce Bishop, who scored 15 points for winless Riverview, led all scorers.

Fordson and Wyandotte, each finishing with 11-3 records, wound up as co-champions and Monroe finished third with a 9-5 record, followed by Taylor Center and Taylor Truman, each with 8-6 marks, then Lincoln Park (5-9), Wayne Memorial (4-10) and Riverview (0-14).

The coaches also selected their all-conference teams and two Wayne players - Poteau and Kelvin Lee - missed making the second team by one point and were awarded honorable mention. Mark Zerona also was in that select group.

Sixth successive championship

Plymouth Salem continues cage monopoly

Someone should sue Fred Thomann for violating the anti-trust laws.

Thomann and Plymouth Salem throttled Belleville 76-57 for their sixth consecutive Suburban 8 Conference basketball championship. They continue to monopolize the title in a year when the dynasty was reportedly in danger.

The Rocks won 11 of 12 conference games and finished the regular season with a 18-2 record. They'll host the district playoffs which got underway Monday night with Garden City West clashing with Westland John Glenn.

Salem played Wayne Memorial on Tuesday and on Thursday Plymouth Canton will take on the winner of the West-Glenn game while East plays the winner of the Salem-Wayne game.

The championship will be decided at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday.

Salem couldn't shake a pesky Belleville quintet until the final quarter when the Rocks outscored their hosts 21-10.

Close for three quarters because of Belleville's sharpshooting guard, Herb Burrus' performance, Salem led by three after the first period (18-15) and by five at halftime (37-32). Belleville remained in range after three periods, trailing by eight, 55-47.

Burrus hit on 11 field goals and made six of 13 free throws for 28 points, while foul-troubled 6-8 center, Earl Watson, contributed eight points.

Early in the first period Watson was handcuffed with three quick personals and didn't see action until the third period when he sustained his fourth foul.

"The game was closer than the score indicates," said Belleville Coach Tom Niemi. "People don't realize how hard this group of players have worked to improve against some of the toughest competition around. These kids aren't quitters, for one thing."

Salem's mainstay for this victory was Howard Monk who pumped in 25 points. The supporting cast included Kevin Kelliher who tossed in 12 points, Rich Hewlett, with 11 and Bill Thimm with 10.

The league also named its all-conference team over the weekend and named to the first team are: Rich Hewlett (6-1, Salem), Chris Bollin (6-6, Bentley), Gary Wilkie (6-3, Allen Park), Erick Thorderson (6-5, Bentley) and Belleville's 5-10 guard Herb Burrus.

The second team is made up of Dave McCormack (6-6, Allen Park), Bruce Nabazny (5-10, Edsel Ford), Steve Booth (6-1, Bentley), Gary Owens (6-2½, Plymouth Salem), and Craig Wolter (5-10, Dearborn).

Honorable Mention went to Earl Watson (Belleville), Kevin Kelliher (Salem), Rod Armstrong (Edsel Ford) and Jamie Bedenis (Edsel Ford).

Beautiful victories

Undefeated in the Great Lakes 8 Conference, Wayne Memorial won a "beautiful victory" at Dearborn to annex the Class A District Volleyball Championship to their list of accomplishments. Coach Doris Busuito's girls will return to Dearborn again this weekend to play for the regional crown. Members of

Wayne girls capture district V'ball title

Undefeated in the Great Lakes, Wayne Memorial added yet another gem to its volleyball crown. Coach Doris Busuito's girls captured the Class A District volleyball championship at Dearborn, beating Dearborn Heights Crestwood 2-1 in the final round.

Romulus cagers are ready for 'A' district playoffs

Though distressed at a couple of defensive lapses during Friday night's loss to Detroit Southwestern, Romulus Coach Rod Hanna says his team is ready for the playoffs.

"Friday night we used everyone because it was 'Parents' Night' and we still gave a strong Southwestern team a run for its money," Hanna said, "and Southwestern lost to Murray Wright in an overtime. (Murray Wright is ranked No. 1 in the state).

"Yes, I feel we're ready for the tournament," Hanna responded to a question about this week's playoffs.

Romulus plays the winner of the Monroe and Belleville game Wednesday (March 7) at 7 p.m. in the semi-finals after drawing a first round bye at the Temperance Bedford district.

The championship game is scheduled for Friday night at 8 p.m. and Ypsilanti, favored to win its third consecutive district title, has to get past the host, Temperance, to reach the finals. Bedford and Ypsi met Monday night.

"I think our kids feel they can play with anyone over there," Hanna continued. "We beat Ann Arbor Pioneer in overtime and Ypsi had to struggle to get by Pioneer last week-it should be an interesting district."

Romulus will take a 15-5 won-lost record into the playoffs.

A dozen turnovers in a frenzied fourth period led to Romulus' 85-80 loss to Southwestern Friday night. The Eagles had their problems in the first period against the taller Detroit quintet which built up a 24-19 first period lead despite John Kersey and Richard Lewis's heroics.

Kersey sank nine points, including an at-the-buzzer layup, as the Eagles caught up at intermission and tied the score at 43-all.

Outscoring their visitors 19-16 in the third period, Romulus later surrendered the lead early in the fourth period when Alonzo Carter came out shooting and the Eagles lost their way in a maze of turnovers - 10 to be exact.

With 2:19 left, Romulus was still in the game as Dave Casey sank two free throws and teammate Richard Lewis made four clutch shots at the foul line to bring the Eagles within three, 79-76, of catching the Prospectors.

Kersey blocked a sure basket but fouled Carter who made a pair of free throws (81-76), then after Darryl Lewis's tapin, Carter again drove in for a basket, giving Southwestern an 83-78 lead with 53 seconds left. They hung on to hand the hosts their fifth loss of the season.

Kersey had a season high 25 points, and Lewis added 16 while Casey and Stu Block, a quick-and-alert guard contributed 12 and 10 points respectively.

Carter's 19 points topped the Prospectors.

Romulus avenged an earlier loss to Ann Arbor Pioneer by winning an ear-splitting 80-68 victory in overtime earlier in the week.

The Eagles blew a three-point lead with 10 seconds left when Keith Bostic capitalized on a layup for a three-point play.

In the extra period, Darryl Lewis sank a 10-foot jumper to give the Eagles the lead momentarily as the Pioneer tied it up on Bill Elliott's basket. However, Block came through with a short jumper and again Elliott stole the ball and drove in for the tying basket.

What proved to be the difference was Kersey's basket of a Darryl Lewis shot that missed the target with five seconds left.

Tied at 14-all after the first period, Pioneer broke to the front with as 23-16 edge in the next period, but the Eagles came within three of a third period deadlock by outscoring Pioneer 19-16 to make it, 53-39, Romulus also had the edge 15-11 in the third period.

The Lewis brothers accounted for 35 of the Eagles points, Richard getting 20, while Kersey again had an excellent night, coring 20 points.

Northwest swim titles are up for grabs

The expanded Northwest Suburban Conference will meet on Thursday at Redford Union to decide which team and who will own individual swimming titles.

The championships are being hosted by the newest member of the league, Redford Union, beginning at 3 p.m. with the diving preliminaries at 7 p.m. for the swim prelims.

The finals will be staged 7 p.m. Friday. "North Farmington is definitely the team to beat," commented Glenn Coach Jim Lawrence. "They're undefeated and would have to finish third or worst to jeopardize their title status."

Lawrence figures that divers Rob Freeborn and John Marshall along with breaststroker Joel Garbus have an excellent opportunity to come away with individual accolades.

The Westlanders ended the dual meet season with a close 90-82 victory over Redford Union, so they'll take a 2-3 won-lost record into the conference championships.

"It was an extremely exciting meet in which every swimmer had a specific job to do and did it.

"It was also a nice way for four of our seniors - Garbus, and freestylers Greg Pici, Stan Kane and Alan Raven to end their prep careers."

Glenn swimmers posted 17 personal best times and won five of the 11 events, including both relays. The Rockets also needed to capture the 400-freestyle relay in order to win the meet and Kane, Kirk Schinzel, Todd Christopher and Bill Costolo came through with the winning time of 3:54.1.

Meet results: Westland John Glenn 90, Redford Union 82.

Canton has its first perfect league cage season

Plymouth Canton turned back an upset-minded Northville Friday night to realize their second of three goals for the season.

Coach Craig Bell's Chiefs beat a nothing-to-lose, and everything-to-win Northville cage team 77-69 for their 10th straight Western Six Conference victory.

It provided Canton with their first undefeated conference basketball season. The Chiefs had the title sewed up a couple of weeks ago.

In a battle described as 'a dogfight' by Coach Bell, the champs needed a second-half surge to get some breathing room. But they never had a chance to rest in a game marred by personal fouls.

There were 35 fouls called on Northville and 36 on Canton which led to the early departures of the Chiefs' Frank LeSota and Nor-thville's 6-4 center, Joe Schimpf. "I knew we had to be prepared to play them," said Bell who'll take a team with a 16-4 won-lost record into the Class A district playoffs at Plymouth Salem tonight. "They had everything to gain by beating up and the game shaped up into a dogfight."

Canton edged its way to a 22-19, first period lead and held on at intermission 35-32.

A balanced scoring attack led by Canton's Butch King, who pumped in eight of his 18 points in the third period, plus excellent team defense - Canton played man-to-man most of the night - gave the Chiefs a seven point cushion (57-48) heading into the final period.

Northville outscored their visitors 21-10 in the last eight minutes of the regular season.

King's 18 points stood up as the Chiefs' high. He received ample support from 6-4 forward, Mike Leary, who tossed in 15 and grabbed nine rebounds. Mike Gollnick, a 6-5 center, also hauled down nine rebounds and contributed 12 points, while floor leader, Rusty Mandle, who has over 150 assists for the season, counted 10 assists in this game.

Hot-shooting Northville guard Bob Crisan scored 22 points, the game's high, and 6-4 Schimpf accounted for 19 points before his premature departure from the game.

Canton takes on the winner of the Garden City West and Westland

John Glenn game (scheduled for Monday night) on Thursday at 7 p.m. p.m. in the semi-final round. The winner will advance to the championship and play the survivor of the Wayne Memorial and Plymouth Salem game.

The district championship at Salem will be decided at 7:30 p.m. on Saturday.

For boys and girls

Romulus baseball registration

If you missed last week's registration, players who wish to play in Romulus North Little League may sign up on Saturday.

Officials said that baseball registration will be accepted from 1 to 4:30 p.m. on March 10 at the Romulus Library.

Boys and girls in Romulus, living north of I-94, are eligible to play in the summer league. Players must be between the ages of 8 and 18 before August 1, 1979 and potential players must bring a parent and a birth certificate at the time of registration.

Registration fee is $20 per family and further information may be obtained by telephoning Peggy

Paton, league secretary, at 941-2871.

League president Jack F. Moores, Jr. said that the organization is planning to raise $250,000 to develop and build a first class little league diamond.

The site, already under construction, is located near Henry Ruff and Beverly Park. The first field, a major-minor diamond, will be completed for play this season. It will be followed by a second field for senior-big league play.

Residents and businessmen are urged to join the drive to raise funds and information about the project can be obtained by telephoning Moores at 941-0532.

Wheat germ breads in fruit flavors

We like to think of these recipes as mother nature's very own quick breads. One is wheat germ avocado loaf, the other a wheat germ honey apple bread. Both are made with vacuum packed wheat germ, milk, eggs, other wholesome ingredients . . . and of course, fresh avocado for one and fresh apple for the other. No wonder they're so moist and good tasting. Wheat germ's nutty flavor comes through to give the breads a hearty character, too. The avocado recipe makes one good sized loaf while the apple recipe makes two smaller loaves. They're so easy to make and can be stirred up in a jiffy. At breakfast, coffeetime or snacktime, the breads are delicious on their own or buttered. Team them with soup or salad to make a satisfying lunch or supper. Slice and toast them for breakfast. Keep the wheat germ loaves wrapped for maximum freshness.

Thinking in terms of eating a well balanced diet includes all the things you eat during the day . . . snacks and "extras" as well as meals. That's why getting in the wheat germ habit is such a smart idea. Kretschmer wheat germ is one of the world's most nutritious natural foods. This beautiful all purpose food is one to eat anytime. It's delicious and satisfying as a breakfast cereal. As a versatile cooking ingredient, wheat germ benefits all kinds of baking goods as well as main dishes, casseroles and salads. Using wheat germ everyday helps balance the diet for so little effort.

Wheat germ both regular and sugar & honey comes vacuum packed in screw top jars to preserve its goodness and freshness. After opening wheat germ can be kept fresh in the refrigerator.

Wheat Germ Avocado Bread

- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup mashed ripe avocado (1 medium)
- 3/4 cup milk
- 3 tablespoons cooking oil
- 2 cups flour
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons grated orange peel
- 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1 cup vacuum packed wheat germ, regular
- 1/2 cup finely chopped pecans

Beat egg with avocado, milk and oil until smooth. All at once add flour mixed with sugar, baking powder, salt, orange peel, cinnamon and wheat germ. Mix until ingredients are moistened. Spread batter in greased 8 1/2 x 4 1/2 x 2 1/2 inch loaf pan. Bake in 350 degree oven 55 to 60 minutes or until a pick inserted into center comes out clean. (If using glass pan, bake in 325 degrees oven). Cool in pan 10 minutes. Turn out onto rack to cool. For easier slicing wrap in foil or plastic wrap and stove overnight. Makes 1 loaf.

Wheat Germ Honey-Apple Bread

- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup cooking oil
- 1/4 cup honey
- 2 eggs
- 2 cups flour
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 cup vacuum packed wheat germ, regular
- 1 1/2 cups shredded, pared apples (2 to 3)

Beat together sugar, oil, honey and eggs. Combine flour, soda, baking powder, salt and cinnamon. Add to egg mixture alternately with milk. Stir in wheat germ and apples. Spread batter in 2 greased 7 1/2 x 3 1/2 x 2 1/4 inch loaf pans. Bake in 350 degree oven 45 to 50 minutes or until pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool in pan 5 to 10 minutes. Turn out onto rack to cool. Wrap in foil or plastic wrap. Bread slices more easily and flavor improves after storing overnight. Makes 2 loaves.

+ Or 1 (9 x 5 x 3-inch) loaf pan. Bake 60 to 65 minutes.

'Third Secret of Fatima' is topic of March lecture

The famous "Third Secret of Fatima" will be the topic of a free lecture to be given March 12 at 8 p.m. at Sans Souci Hall, 29500 Nine Mile in Farmington Hills.

The lecture is to be sponsored by the Fatima Crusade, the topic relating to a letter given to the Pope in 1917 which remained unopened until 1960. The lecturer will be The Rev. Dennis Philomena, director of the Fatima Crusade.

According to Roman Catholic Church authorities, the Blessed Virgin Mary appeared six times to three children in the Portuguese village of Fatima and revealed an important message to them.

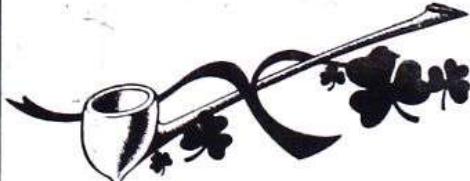

A part was given only to the eldest girl, Lucia, with instructions given by the Virgin Mary that it be written down and delivered to the Pope, with the insistence that the message remain unopened until 1960, according to church authorities.

When opened by Pope John XXIII in 1960, he decided to not reveal the contents to the public. According to Cardinal Ottaviani of the Roman Curia, the Pope allegedly revealed excerpts to world leaders at the time.

And in 1963, portions were published in a German newspaper, the excerpts revealing strife and disorder for the second half of the century.

The lecture will be based on the subject and is open to the public.

potpourri

BY LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

It's always a pleasure to hear that someone has read "potpourri" and, whether the person liked or disliked what was written and agreed or disagreed, it's still rewarding to know that it is being read.

And when a writer receives a personal letter all the way from North Kansas City, Mo. commenting on a "potpourri" item, it's doubly pleasing. To think someone I've never met has taken the time to type a full-page regarding the segment on the "Top 10 in Your Personal Hit Parade" . . . super!

The letter writer, businessman Tom Hagan, (whose company deals with personnel placement for banks), said, "Were you aware you had a reader-admirer in Kansas City, Missouri? I read with interest your column dated Feb. 14. Be careful there — you 'date' yourself when you speak of the 'Hit Parade'." Wasn't that the Lucky Strike program back in the 40's? (Yes, Tom, I'll admit to 'growing up' in the years of WW-II.) "Me?" he continues, "I'm too young to remember THAT — and Rudy Vallee, the Andrews Sisters, Amos and Andy, the Ink Spots, Nat King Cole" (and he continues on to mention various country and western vocalists of that same era.)

"My all-time list of best sellers in religious music must be started with 'I Believe' and 'The Lord's Prayer'." "Have Thine Own Way, Lord" would come next although I do love "How Great Thou Art."

"I suppose for my all-time high in nostalgia toward an all-time number one I'd have to name Wee Bonnie Baker's 'Oh Johnny'." A surprise? Well, maybe you have guessed by now — I had a dance band when I was in college — that grand and glorious 1940. As for tunes to tickle the tingling toes — how about "In the Mood" and "Ballin' the Jack"? For information on the "First Lady" of radio entertainment, ask your mother about Kate Smith. (Bless your heart, Tom). "And that brings me to another point; I had an aunt in Texas; her name — Lee Smith!"

"Nostalgia, remembrances, sweet memories, good times, happy days; whatever the reason, we all love to go back occasionally to sounds we each consider the swiftest, the dancingest music of our lives; bobby soxer or matron, doughboy or Joe College, the jazz, the swing — it was all there for each of us to see, hear, feel and love. And we can still go back, in our hearts, and enjoy it all over again when people like you remind us of the treasures we have at our fingertips."

Thank you, Tom, you've helped to brighten what today in Belleville is a rather dreary, overcast and drizzly day. Your very nice letter has suddenly put the sunshine back in the skies and taken the chill out of the air.

And now that Tom has provided the opening for this March 7 dissertation, we've a few more additions to the top tunes roster. A call last Wednesday from a Van Buren Township gal, who wishes to remain anonymous, put the following numbers on her list of favorites: "Gypsy Love Song" . . . "Shanty in Old Shanty Town" . . . "It Had to Be You" . . . "Memories" . . . "Night and Day" . . . "Serenade from the Student Prince" . . . "When Day is Done" . . . "Ave Maria" . . . "The Lord's Prayer" and "More."

Gail Snible, who's a member of the composition room staff at Associated Newspapers, handed her list in a couple weeks ago with a few comments included: "They Call the Wind Maria" (her very favorite) . . . "Red River Valley" (her favorite as a child) . . . "You Don't Know Me" (she was a shy teen) . . . "Lovin' Her was Easier than Anything I'll Ever Do Again" (she likes to imagine someone singing this for her) . . . "Danny Boy" (to her the most beautiful melody) . . . "I Got Rhythm" (this song, she says, "Just excites me.") . . . "I'll Never Find Another You" and "Kum Ba Yah."

Our own Diane (here at the E-R office) says she particularly enjoys church hymns and Christmas songs and has a special spot for "Abide with Me" . . .

"In the Garden" . . . "Are Ye Able" . . . "America" . . . "Silent Night" and "Were You There?"

And if you'd like to add your favorites for a continuance of this topic, just call me at 697-7591 or at 697-9191 on Thursdays. Or you can drop a line to me at 116 Fourth St., Belleville, 48111. Would love to hear from you.

HEY YOU SINGLE FELLAS OUT THERE — attention! Had a call from a gal who said she didn't have a list of her pet peeves to pass on to us but she definitely DID have a big gripe she'd like to have aired via "potpourri".

In our conversation, she said that her biggest peeve at the moment is the bachelor-widower-divorcee who accepts your hospitality time after time but never, never reciprocates. Not only does he not return the invitation, she said, but he also never, never shows up with so much as a box of candy or jar of peanuts. And the earth would quake she said, if he were even to think of bringing a couple of steaks.

Our caller (a married gal with a family) says she just doesn't have the guts to tell "these clowns" herself that they are cheap and inconsiderate but "Maybe," she suggested, "they just might recognize themselves if they read your column. More than one is from this area."

Her husband is the kind of guy, she told us, who loves his home, thinks his wife is the greatest cook and enjoys asking his unmarried friends to eat with them. "And I wouldn't mind at all because I DO like to cook and entertain but not when I am taken for granted and never shown some kind of appreciation," she said.

What prompted her call we finally found was "That last jerk my husband brought home. Not only did he eat everything in sight but THEN asked if he could have the rest of the pie for his lunch the next day."

Our understanding is there's going to be a showdown between the "good cook" and her "best fan" — and all those freeloaders are just gonna have to find themselves another gift horse.

Our caller concluded by saying if her "message" got across to just ONE fella who's "always the guest — never the host," she will feel she's done her "fellow-women" a big favor.

Well, guys, if you find yourself suddenly without that meal ticket for home cooking, perhaps you're one of the "moochers" our caller referred to. Could be you'd better stop by the party store tonight and pick up something (wine, flowers, a fruit basket . . . COFFEE) for your hostess if you're ever to see another free meal.

Are you brave enough to try something new as a topping for broccoli? With just the two of us now, it seems I never quite use up a whole bunch of celery anymore. The other night, deciding I'd had enough of the "munchies" (but knowing I couldn't bare to waste such expensive stuff) I broke off two stalks, slit 'em down the center, then sliced 'em in about quarter-inch pieces.

Then boiled in slightly salted water for about 10 minutes (leaving in some "bite") and drained. In same (empty) sauce pan, made a small amount of white sauce (an extravagance for weight-watchers but the rest of the meal was so low caloric, I splurged), then added several pieces of Munster cheese (you might prefer Monterey Jack, Swiss, colby, etc.), stirred 'til smooth and returned celery to sauce, adding a wee bit of white pepper.

Served over barely-cooked broccoli stalks and it was quite elegante!

THE BOTTOM LINE: The persons hardest to convince they're at the retirement age are children at bedtime.

Debbie Brownlee runner-up in Mrs. Michigan Pageant

MRS. BROWNLEE

Contestants — 150 of them — entered the Mrs. America — Michigan competition; 15 were chosen as semi-finalists; one — Debbie K. Brownlee of Belleville — ended up as first runner-up. The second-place honor came with a 1-year modeling contract for such current events as the Michigan State Fair, auto shows, etc. plus a diamond-studded wrist watch.

The Mrs. Michigan Pageant, a 2-year-old program owned by Ted Clark Jr., was staged at the Northfield Hilton in Troy on Feb. 27. The contest also resulted in the "Mrs. Photogenic" award for the Belleville resident.

An elementary art teacher in the Wayne-Westland Schools, Mrs. Brownlee is currently doing undergraduate work toward her master's degree in art education. She is pursuing her studies at Eastern Michigan University where she earned her BA in 1973. The former Debbie Harcas, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Harcas of Ludington.

A professional model for the past 10 years, Mrs. Brownlee works with Austin's International Modeling Agency out of Southfield. Her personal sponsors for the pageant were Country Gate of Ann Arbor; Blazo's Pie Shop of Westland and G. Robb Enterprises, Ltd. of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

Entrants in the recent event ranged in age from 20 to 46 and were judged on the basis of their looks in 1-piece swim suits and evening gowns as well as on poise and personality while modeling casual wear. Although talent was not a criteria, each woman was required to give a 3-minute speech on marriage.

Contestants traveled from as far as Kalamazoo, Flint and Dundee although most were from nearby suburbs such as Dearborn, Hazel Park, Southfield and Belleville.

Mrs. Brownlee, who has been married for five years to Harold David Brownlee, was chosen third runner-up in the 1978 Mrs. America — Michigan competition.

Cooking ideas for easier meals

Americans rely on convenience foods, including dessert mixes, for easy, appetizing meals. What's important is to add wholesome ingredients to the packaged mixes to make them even better — a marvelous unbaked custard can be made with the addition of milk to egg custard mix.

Here's a simple recipe for Cranberry Orange Custard that takes only about an hour to chill and set. Be guided by that time if you plan to prepare it for dinner some night this week.

Prepare according to directions on a 3 oz. size package of egg custard mix. Just add fresh milk; you can add an egg yolk for a richer dessert. Before cooling the prepared custard, add 1 teaspoon grated orange rind; then, pour into a serving dish and chill until set. When you serve it with heated whole berry cranberry sauce, there's a delicious contrast with the chilled creamy custard.

Fussing with food preparation can be far too time consuming if you're juggling a job and assorted family schedules. So, when it comes to no-fuss ways to get the meal on the table, that's the news most of us like to hear.

The first step is to have at least a good stock of quick dessert mixes ready to go. After all, the end of the meal is remembered a long time after. If you happen to have a 3-1/4 oz. size package of vanilla tapioca pudding mix on the shelf — that's the start of a Minceat Parfait for dinner dessert.

Prepare tapioca pudding with 2 cups milk as directed on the package and chill. Select four of your prettiest dessert dishes — or parfait glasses, if you happen to have them. Then, layer the chilled pudding with a half-cup prepared minceat and stash these perfect parfaits in the refrigerator until serving time. Add a dollop of prepared whipped topping for dress-up. The family will love you for being treated so special.

If you seem to be in a daily race to get things done, including family meals, then convenience foods are important to you. Some of the nicest thing happen when you have a few packages of handy dessert mixes on the shelf. For example, you can produce a no-bake creamy Sugar and Spice Rice Pudding with convenient rice pudding mix.

Simply prepare a 3-1/4 oz. package of rice pudding mix as directed. It's easily done right on top of the kitchen range. Pour the warm prepared pudding into four individual dessert dishes and sprinkle with a mixture of 1 tablespoon sugar and 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon. This is a memorable rice pudding that could take you back to grandma's kitchen.

If you read through some of the really old cookbooks, you can see it was a major task to make a tasty tapioca pudding from scratch. It was a task, and very time consuming. I wonder that what those cookbook authors would say if they knew how most of us capture that wonderful old-time taste of tapioca pudding with dessert mixes. Of course, nowadays we embellish convenient mixes so that an old favorite has an exciting look.

For example, Tapioca Pudding Parfait begins with one package of chocolate or vanilla tapioca pudding prepared according to directions on the package itself. So easy to do in a saucepan on top of the stove. Then this prepared tapioca is transformed into a parfait by simply layering the cooled pudding into parfait glasses with banana slices or drained orange sections. You might even prefer chocolate syrup. Or, you can alternate layers of prepared whipped topping and currant jelly. Chill the tapioca tempters before serving.

Most of us are diet conscious these days. We're concerned about giving our family the right nutrients and well-balanced meals. Since we all seem to like desserts, it's good to know that some desserts provide an opportunity to get more milk into the diet — a good source of protein and calcium.

So, you might consider a convenient rice pudding dessert mix with a great from-scratch flavor and texture. Best of all, the rice pudding dessert mix is prepared easily right on top of the stove.

Here's a variation on the basic recipe — Rum Raisin Rice Pudding. Simply prepare according to directions on a 3-1/4 oz. size package of rice pudding, and this is where you add that important milk. Have a 1/2 cup raisins ready to add to this mixture before cooking; then, after cooking, add 1 teaspoon rum extract. Serve warm or chilled. This creamy rice pudding is sure to be a family favorite.

A 'new look' for old frank

Looking for a way to put a little pizzazz in hot dogs? Try frankfurter quesadillas, a special south-of-the-border dish guaranteed to take the nip out of frost-bitten winter nights.

FRANKFURTERS QUESADILLAS

- 1 can (16 ozs.) sauerkraut
- 1 teaspoon dill seed
- 1 package (9 ozs.) frozen tortillas
- oil
- 3 cups shredded Swiss cheese
- 12 frankfurters
- prepared mustard
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
- parsley for garnish (optional)

Place sauerkraut in wire strainer, rinse well and drain thoroughly. Squeeze out excess liquid and place in bowl; mix in dill seed. Separate tortillas; brush with oil and heat on hot griddle until pliable. As each tortilla is heated, wrap in foil to keep warm.

For each quesadilla, sprinkle 1/4 cup Swiss cheese over the tortilla and place one frankfurter along one side. Drizzle with one teaspoon mustard or to taste. Distribute 2 tablespoons of sauerkraut along the frankfurter. Roll up and place, seam side down, in buttered 13-by-9-by-2-inch baking dish so they do not touch, if possible. Brush generously with melted butter.

Bake, uncovered, in a preheated 400-degree oven for 25 minutes, or until crisp, brushing occasionally with remaining butter. Place on serving platter and garnish with parsley, if desired.

Easy custard pie

How sophisticated are you in your dessert preferences? Well, there's nothing old-fashioned about liking a traditional Egg Custard Pie. But there is something old-fashioned if you go the route of making it from scratch. Even if time is at a premium for you, you can use a convenient egg custard mix that's ready in a jiffy without baking.

Follow directions on a 3-oz. package of egg custard mix and the preparation is so easy in a saucepan right on top of the kitchen range. After cooling, pour the prepared custard into a baked 8-inch pie shell, sprinkle with nutmeg and chill until set — about 3 hours.

Shakespeare's 'Much Ado' next at WSU theater

One of Shakespeare's comic masterpieces, "Much Ado About Nothing", will officially open at 8:30 p.m. March 21 at the Wayne State University Hilberry Theatre, following previews on March 16-17.

"Much Ado About Nothing" is most famous for the witty and charming characters Beatrice and Benedick, two avowed "enemies" who are tricked into each other's arms.

Intertwined with this plot is the dramatic story of Beatrice's kinswoman Hero, who is renounced by her bridegroom Claudio, is avenged and vindicated by Beatrice and Benedick and, accidentally, by constable Dogberry and his bumbling watchmen.

It has been said that both plots are developed by eavesdropping and overhearing, and that in Elizabethan English the title also means much ado about "nothing."

The Hilberry production is directed by Robert T. Hazzard, with costumes designed by Helen Markovitch and Jackie Durbin and lighting by Gary M. Witt.

The setting by Russel Smith is based on British scholar-designer C. Walter Hodges' drawings for a reconstructed Globe Theatre stage. The WSU Theatre is hosting an international symposium in May to discuss plans for a proposed full-scale reconstruction of the entire Globe Theatre, based on Hodges' designs.

The Hilberry's "Much Ado" features Dianne Winslow and Neil Thackaberry Jr. as Claudio, and Peter Van Wagner as Dogberry. Other principal roles are played by Von Washington, Mark Robbins and Richard Bradshaw.

For ticket information and reservations, write to the Hilberry Theatre box office (Cass and Hancock), Wayne State University, Detroit 48202, or call 577-2972.

"Much Ado" continued in the repertory through May 18, alternating with "Chemin de Fer" and, after April 20, with "The Duchess of Malfi."

Much Ado...

Neil Thackaberry Jr. and Diana Winslow will appear as the good-natured foes-turned lovers, Benedick and Beatrice, in Shakespeare's popular comedy "Much Ado About Nothing," which joins the Hilberry Theatre repertory at 8:30 p.m. March 16. Reservations for this and the other Wayne State University theater production can be made by calling the Hilberry Theatre box office at 577-2972. The theater is located on the WSU campus, located at Cass and Hancock in Detroit.

To music hall

Mummenschanz returns

DINE OUT...

and tell 'em
we sent you!

Detroit audiences will have a new opportunity to see one of the most fresh and original shows in recent history when the Mummenschanz return to Detroit's Music Hall Center for six performances March 8 through 11.

The Mummenschanz is that marvelously strange and funny mime troupe whose use of clay, toilet paper, and blob-like masks have made them a favorite of children and adults from Europe to California.

The familiar traditions of white-face pantomime disappear immediately when the first member of the troupe appears onstage completely hidden in a large, soft, tent-like costume and proceeds to undulate in attempts to climb atop a platform on center stage. The cast of odd "characters" created by the Mummenschanz goes on to include amoebas, insects, balloon-heads, and people whose emotions are communicated by drawings on each of their facial features.

Although they have been praised for their excellent body control and imaginative use of props and costumes, possibly the best recommendation of the Mummenschanz is their ability to entertain on whatever level you wish to place them — as profound, funny, abstract, silly, or sophisticated performers.

Performances at the Music Hall are scheduled for Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:30 p.m., Sunday evening at 6:30 p.m. and at 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

And also coming to the Music hall is Bach star Virgil Fox, the king of the concert organ, who will perform on March 7, and if his hundreds of concerts over the past eight years are any indication, the audience will include rock music freaks as well as the expected classical music fans. A rock audience for a Bach concert?

This seeming phenomenon started in 1970 when non-conformist Fox had the temerity to add a light show to his all-Bach concert and present it in the hot-bed of rock music, New York's Fillmore East. At the end of the night, 2,650 screaming kids (truned on by the lights, Bach, Fox and the sounds of his magnificent electric organ) jumped to their feet and, according to Rolling Stone Magazine, "Gave him the kind of standing ovation usually reserved for Eric Clapton, calling out for more."

"Yet Fox' reverence for Bach is evangelical. He proclaims: 'My Bach is a red-blooded, gutsy, he-man Bach.' Fox dismisses old-fashioned Bach purists as 'bar-nacles on the ship of music.'"

"I am controversial as hell," continues the 61-year-old former church organist. "My more conservative colleagues regard me as an infidel. They say I'm a showman, and I'm proud to be one." And showman he is, with his treader's cape, iridescent paisley jacket and rhinestone-studded suede slippers. Fox is now permanently teamed with David Snyder's "Revelation Lights" show, a constantly changing array of flame, flowers, fountains and volcanoes, all swaying and dancing in time to Bach's music.

The Virgil Fox-Revelation Lights concert will start at 8:30 p.m. at the Music Hall March 7.

Tickets for both shows can be obtained at the Music Hall box office, 350 Madison Avenue, or by calling 963-7680.

Like in olden days

Garden City resident Nancy Schaldenbrand may live in the 20th century, but through March 18 she will be working with tools of the 1800s as part of the "Warp and Weft" exhibition at Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn. Ms. Schaldenbrand will be demonstrating tabletop tape looms which were used for weaving narrow fabric items, such as belts and chair seat tapes of "straps". Visitors to the exhibition actually can take part in many of the simpler steps of early American weaving.

'Ice Capades' comes to town

It will be fun, filled with laughter and excitement when the Ice Capades comes to Detroit's Olympia Stadium March 13 through 19.

Featured will be Olympic gold medalist Dorothy Hamill.

Some Saturday morning favorites in the cast of "Wiz City", a paradise of fun, will be Yogi Bear, Scooby-Doo, Fred Flintstone, Huckleberry Hound, Hong Kong Phooey and Quick Draw McGraw, along with the new blue shark, Jabberjaws.

Tumbling-clown Peluza will portray Major Domo, Mayor of the "Wiz City", and a brigade of six tiny palace and eight winsome wisemen add to all the antics. A collection of about six "Book People" will tell children all about reading, writing and arithmetic, and Wiz Kid David Lucas will demonstrate his proficiency with the three 'rs while skillfully juggling his school books in mid-air.

That's only part of the lineup for the 1979 Ice Capades. Performances will be at 7:30 weeknights, 8 p.m. Fridays, 12 noon, 4 and 8 p.m. Saturdays and 1:30 and 5:30 p.m. Sundays.

Tickets are available at the Olympia Stadium Box Office. For further information call 895-7000 between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

'Warp and Weft' opens at museum

You don't have to be a dyed-in-the-wool spinner or weaver to enjoy the "Warp and Weft" exhibit at Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn now through March 18.

Visitors can try their hands at some simple cloth-making steps and observe experts demonstrate some of the more complicated techniques.

"Warp and Weft" examines the old-fashioned processing of wool and flax from fiber to fabric. It takes its name from the fabric threads — warp (threads lengthwise in a piece of cloth) and weft (threads interlaced through the warp). Visitors can use a drop-spindle, an early spinning device, to make thread, and can weave cloth on a simple hand loom. Also, there are opportunities for visitors to handle finished fabrics to familiarize themselves with the textures.

The exhibit traces wool fiber through shearing, washing, carding, spinning and weaving processes. Visitors watch experienced spinners on 18th and 19th century spinning wheels and see how wool was dyed a century or more ago using natural dyes made from flowers, weeds, roots, barks and nutshells.

Comparable steps in the transformation of flax into linen also are highlighted. Diagrams, illustrations and demonstrations follow flax from harvesting through rotting the inner core, combing to remove seeds, beating the fibers, knocking out the core, combing a second time, and finally winding the flax onto a staff of a spinning wheel. In the weaving area of the exhibit, visitors see how a loom is prepared so that threads become patterned cloth.

There is no charge for "Warp and Weft" beyond regular Museum admission. Children under 6 are admitted free.

Consumer comment

Credit cards: Your rights and responsibilities

By LINDA JOY
Executive Director
Michigan Consumers Council

Many consumers now have a plastic money card in their wallets which allows them to make bank deposits or withdrawals at almost any hour. If you have one of these cards, here are some tips you need to know about your rights and responsibilities.

Don't write the secret identification number on the card or carry it near the card in a wallet or purse. This number must remain secret to keep both savings and checking accounts secure. The combination of the card and number may be all someone would need to wipe out all your accounts.

Try to memorize the number, but if you must write it down, keep the number in a place separate from the card. And don't give the number to another person, no matter how good a friend. You may be held liable for any transactions made by another person who has both the card and the secret number.

A new state law offers protection from some of the disadvantages of the system which transfers money from one account to another instantly with a simple electronic impulse.

The 24-hour tellers are the most familiar examples of this new technology. But the future may see these terminals in many other places too. For example, one day you may pay for groceries by simply transferring the money electronically from your own account to the store's. While no cash or checks actually change hands, the goods have been paid for instantaneously by computer.

Because all transactions are handled by computer, there is a detailed financial record available on everyone who uses this system. To protect your privacy and make sure this information doesn't get into the wrong hands, the new law requires your specific permission before any information on your account can be released unless it were required by law or a court order.

To help you keep track of your personal finances, the law requires the financial institution to issue periodic statements, along with a receipt for each transaction made with the electronic teller. It also prohibits the mailing of unsolicited cards and provides guidelines to work out possible disputes.

You also will be able to stop payment on a purchase just as you can on a check. If a problem arises with an item costing more than $50 and attempts to work out the problem with the store have failed, you can order the financial institution to reverse the payment.

If you'd like more information on your rights and responsibilities under this important new law, write the Michigan Consumers Council, 414 Hollister Bldg., 106 W. Allegan, Lansing 48933.

What's for lunch?

Barbequed beef, chili with crackers and oven fried chicken will be among the entrees that will be served in the cafeterias of the Van Buren public schools next week.

In the family lunch-style program at Quirk, West Willow and Savage schools the menu Monday will be pizza, green beans, cole slaw, peaches and pineapple, chilly things and milk, followed by a menu of oven-fried chicken, mashed potatoes with gravy, cranberry sauce, buttered beets, corn, white or wheat bread, fruit cocktail, Jell-O and milk on Tuesday.

No lunches will be served next Wednesday in the school district.

Next Thursday the lineup will include tacos, with chopped tomato, shredded lettuce and cheese, tator tots, apples, pudding, lemon drink and milk, while topping off the week the menu will be fish and chips with tartar sauce, celery, french fries, radishes, cole slaw, rolls and butter, fruit Jell-O and milk.

In the other elementary schools Monday the cafeterias will be observing Mexican Day with a menu of chili with crackers, burritos and tacos, corn with diced red and green peppers, chilly things and milk.

Tuesday students will be dining on soup and crackers, bacon, lettuce and tomato on submarine sandwich buns, pudding, fruit and milk, while next Thursday students will be dining on pizza, juice, salad, vegetable or cole slaw, cobbles and milk.

Rounding out the week will be a menu of juice, fishwich with tartar sauce, tator rounds, cobbler and milk.

In the junior and senior high schools the menu Monday will be pizza or chili and cheeseburgers on large buns, juice, tossed salads, corn, fries, milk or a cold drink, followed by a lineup of barbequed beef on buns or Coney Island foot-long, tossed salads, french fries, peaches, fruit Jell-O, cobbler and milk on Tuesday.

Next Thursday the menu will be chili dogs on buns or Belleville burgers, carrots, french fries, Jell-O, peaches, cake, milk or a cold drink, with a menu of clam rolls with tartar sauce or bacon, lettuce and tomato on large buns, cole slaw, french fries, juice, mixed fruit, milk or a cold drink closing out the week.

Can you survive?

(This is the second in a series of 12 articles, entitled Can You Survive, containing survival tips from the U.S. Air Force Survival School at Fairchild Air Force Base, Wash.)

It is 0 degrees Fahrenheit with an accompanying 15 MPH wind. This results in a wind chill factor of -30 degrees F. You are some 45 minutes from the warmth of your camper and have been hiking in these elements for more than two hours. You have experienced numbness on the exposed parts of your hands and face.

WOULD YOU...
A. Stop and build a temporary shelter.
B. Do nothing except continue on to the camper.
C. Pick up the pace and reach the camper as soon as possible.
D. Protect the exposed skin areas and rewarm as needed. Continue on to the camper.

TO SURVIVE
(D) would be the most appropriate. Provided you are adequately clothed at the beginning of your hike, simple application of a warmed hand to cold ears or cheeks, and/or placement of cold hands in the armpit or groin areas should preclude any severe frostbite from occurring.

(A) would be a suitable alternative, if conditions worsened. The additional factor of snow or rain would almost necessitate stopping, but not under the current conditions described.

(C) would be acceptable, if (D) were incorporated, and the increased pace did not result in perspiration that could reduce the insulative qualities of your clothing.

(B) is the least acceptable alternative. To do nothing could result in severe frostbite. Whenever you are out in the temperatures like those described with an accompanying wind, the chances are great for exposed flesh to freeze. The conditions described may cause exposed flesh to freeze within one minute. (A service of your local Air Force recruiter.)

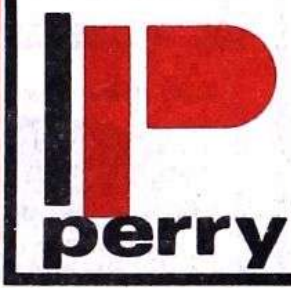

Snakes studied

A program depicting the lives of our various Michigan snakes will be presented at the nature center of Kensington Metropark near Milford on Sunday at 10 a.m.

will be a few of the topics discussed during this 1½-hour long program.

Advanced registration is required for this free program.

Naturalist Steve Horn will use slides and live specimens to explain the remarkable lifestyle of the snake. Ecology, behavior and folklore
